MISS VIRGINIA

Two faculty members who make student problems their personal responsibility are Miss Virginia Kirkbride and Dr. Burnice Jarman. To them the staff dedicates the 1946 CHERRY TREE. Miss Kirkbride as Director of Women's Activities and Dr. Jarman as Registrar have contributed much to the University through their services as Administrative Officers and faculty members and through their sincere interest in the students of The George Washington University.

Director of Personnel Guidance since June 1944, Miss Kirkbride has helped many students find employment, and is particularly busy this year securing part-time jobs for student veterans. In addition to the supervision of the dormitories, she serves as advisor to Mortar Board, Big Sisters, and the Panhellenic Association and is a member of the Student Life Committee. Leaders of campus activities have discovered that Miss Kirkbride's office is the source of many excellent ideas for projects and programs and of methods for carrying them out.

Miss Kirkbride graduated with distinction from the University of Nebraska where she was elected to Pi Lambda Theta, honorary educational organization. She is now teaching several courses in secretarial studies at the University and is an active member of P.E.O., a social and education society. Interested in faculty as well as student activities, Miss Kirkbride holds offices in the Faculty Women's Club and the Newcomers Group.

Miss Kirkbride's gracious manner and helpful suggestions have won the enthusiastic friendship of the women students of the University, who are always welcomed in her friendly busy office on the second floor of Columbian House.

As Chairman of the Committee on Student Life for four years, Dr. Jarman has taken the lead in solving extra-curricular problems, and has given valuable assistance to campus leaders. His confidence in the students is shown by his supervision of the University Chapel where weekly worship services are conducted by the students themselves. As Director of Religious Activities at the University, Dr. Jarman serves as advisor to the Religious Council and the individual religious organizations, and in addition is advisor to the Interfraternity Council and Omicron Delta Kappa.

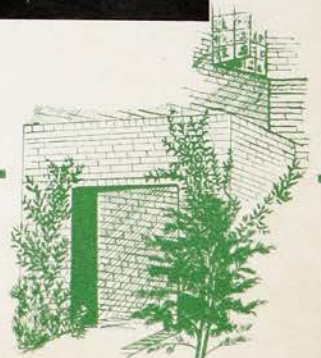

Coming to the University in 1939 as Assistant Professor of Education, Dr. Jarman became an Associate Professor in 1943, and in addition to his full-time duties as Registrar still teaches several courses. Elected to membership in Who's Who in American Education and to Leaders in Education, he is a life member of the National Education Association and a member of the Society for the Advancement of Education, Phi Delta Kappa, and Omicron Delta Kappa.

A leader in his community, Dr. Jarman is Chairman of the Arlington Council of Community Agencies, Vice-President of the Arlington County Tuberculosis Association, Trustee of the Community Chest, and elder in the Clarendon Presbyterian Church, and President of the Westminster Foundation for the National Capital Area.

Known to some for his engaging classroom manner, to others for his sound advice on student activities, but known to all University students for his sincerity, joviality and good judgment, is Dr. Burnice H. Jarman, the University Registrar.

Results from this poll are based on replies to questionnaires distributed to the Senior class. Response to the section of the poll dealing with outstanding seniors was not adequate. It was hoped that such a survey of opinion would help to unify the senior class, but since the replies were as diversified as the interests of the seniors themselves, it was impossible to obtain consistent results. "G.W.'s greatest need" received the most enthusiastic response with answers varying anywhere from a cafeteria supplementing the Student Club to more school spirit.

George Washington occupies a unique position among the universities in the nation due to its large enrollment of night students, many of whom are Government employees in the Nation's Capitol.

My dear Miss Miller:

The photographs were all exceptionally lovely and being limited to choosing only three girls made the task most difficult. For this reason I have selected another girl as tie for third also.

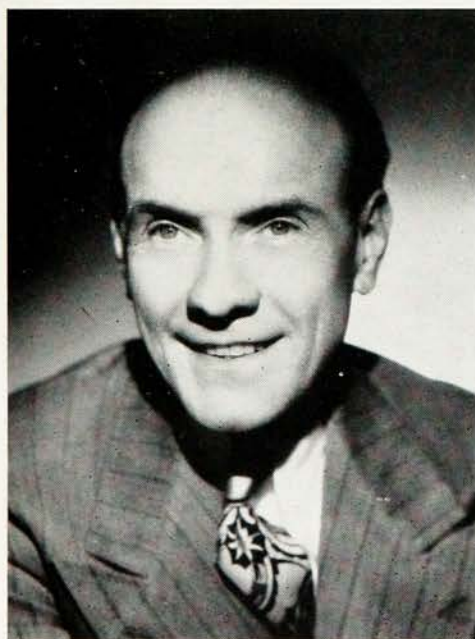

In my opinion the most beautiful girl is JEAN KERR. Second, GLORIA BAKER and for third I have chosen VIRGINIA SHARP and ELIZABETH ROCK.

I trust that my selections will meet with the approval of those who have had the great privilege of seeing these young ladies in person.

Sincerely yours,

Earl Carroll

"Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges" is published annually with the cooperation of over six hundred institutions throughout the country. Students selected for listing in this volume are representative of the outstanding personalities in their respective schools. The required qualities for nomination and final listing are character, scholarship, leadership in extracurricular activities, and the possibility of future usefulness to business and society.

The student representing The George Washington University are selected by a committee made up of members of the faculty and the student body with the registrar acting as chairman. The committee remains anonymous and acts on suggestions from THE HATCHET and from student leaders.

Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honor society, annually elects students for outstanding work in the fields of history, political science, economics, or law. Founded at Southwestern College in 1924, Beta Chapter was organized on the George Washington campus in 1930.

The particular purpose of the society is to send out from colleges and universities young men and women imbued with social idealism, trained in scientific thought, and encouraged to help others to be scientific in their thinking on social questions.

Highest scholastic honor which Freshman university women can attain is membership in Alpha Lambda Delta. Student members must have completed at least fifteen semester hours with an average of 3.5 or higher.

In September chapter members gathered on Strong Hall roof and served a buffet supper to scholarship winners from city high schools. Miss Kirkbride and Dean Koenig were guests. Later in the evening "oldtimers" started group singing and taught the "Alma Mater" to the new freshmen.

This year Phyllis Abrams won the book presented annually to the senior woman with the highest scholastic average.

New members, initiated twice a year, are representative of the sorority's aims—to promote intelligent living and a higher standard of learning and to encourage superior scholastic attainment among the freshmen women.

The George Washington University Chapter was established in 1929. Freshman men who attain a scholastic average of at least 3.5 are admitted to membership.

Each year the chapter gives a tea in conjunction with Alpha Lambda Delta to welcome the incoming Scholarship winners. Members are initiated annually.

White blazers and black skirts distinguished the nine members of Mortar Board this year, as they attended to their numerous duties on campus. Mortar Board meetings—when all nine busy members could get together at the same time—were hilarious: Dot and her practice teaching, Jane always late, Elaine at the Kayhoe's, Anne helping Harry register, Felicia and her pessimism, Janet leaving work at odd hours, Liz and her posters, Aggie wanting to sleep mornings and Margaret trying in vain to get a semblance of order out of the meetings.

Mortar Board is composed of senior women who are elected to membership at the end of their junior year on the basis of outstanding service to the University, scholarship, and leadership.

Registration found them behind an information booth in Government, where they answered questions from "Where do I go now?" to "Could you outline a program for an engineering major?" At the first All-U-Assembly, the original six members of Mortar Board augmented their ranks with the tapping of Agnes Smith, Janet Evans and Elaine Smith. During the traditional University tours Mortar Board introduced the new freshmen to the nooks and crannies of the G. W. campus. Noticing that Columbian House was a little down at the heel, the group initiated a project to collect funds for its redecoration. Several Silver Studies were also held throughout the year. Outstanding service of the year, however, was the Career Conference for all University women held early in March. Leading authorities, representing many professional fields, spoke on the various vocational opportunities for women.

Social events included a waffle party with American U's Cap and Gown Society, a breakfast at the Roger Smith, a luncheon in honor of new members, a party with the Maryland Mortar Boards, a Founder's Day Breakfast in February, and the Fall Alumnae Association meeting at the British Embassy with Lord and Lady Halifax as hosts.

Iota Sigma Pi honors outstanding women in the chemistry department. To be eligible for membership a girl must have received a B average in all of her courses and completed twenty hours of chemistry.

At a fall meeting Dr. Helen Dyer of the National Cancer Institute discussed recent developments in the field of cancer research. Since the feminine scientists believe in atmosphere, the traditional lab supper found them perched on stools in front of the lab desks with a wonderful dinner laid out on assorted pieces of chemistry equipment.

Polonium chapter has been on the campus since 1937. Its purpose is to promote interest in chemistry among women students, to foster mutual advancement in academic, business and social life, and to stimulate personal accomplishment in chemical fields.

In step with the times, Pi Lambda Theta builds its monthly meetings around the theme "Education for International Cooperation."

Alpha Theta chapter, the first educational fraternity at G. W., elects its members from University women whose scholarship ranks in the upper fourth of those enrolled in the School of Education. In addition members must have shown high professional interest, outstanding leadership and exceptional promise in the field of education.

This year's annual Wm. Carl Reudiger lecture featured Dr. Boyd H. Bode who explained "Our Faith in Education." On the social side members enjoyed a joint dinner with Phi Delta Kappa and a formal initiation banquet.

Alpha Pi Epsilon was organized to promote greater interest in Home Economics, to establish higher standards of scholarship among Home Economic students, and to sponsor a general club for students in this department.

Home Economics majors must have finished their sophomore year, have maintained the required scholarship and have been active in the Home Economics department to be eligible for membership.

Alpha Pi's social activities for the year included a tea for Home Economic freshmen and new students, a Christmas party, and a rush tea in the spring after which they attended the National Theater en masse. Their chief projects for the year were raising money to buy a slide camera for the department, and making dolls to send to the Florence Crittenden Home.

Phi Delta Gamma, national fraternity for graduate women, has chapters in thirteen universities. It was founded at the University of Maryland on December 14, 1922, and G.W.'s Beta Chapter was installed in 1925. The fraternity aims to promote the highest professional ideals among women of the graduate schools and to advance their social welfare and activities.

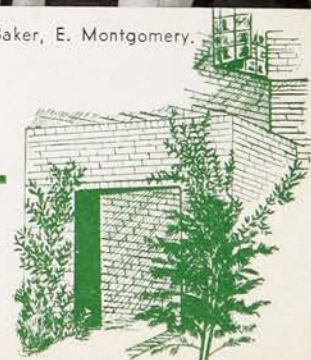

Each fall, the fraternity gives two teas which are open to all graduate women in the University. The rushing season begins in November and ends with initiation in February.

Phi Delta Gamma meets monthly, from October to June on the first Sunday in each month.

The fraternity donates to a National Loan Fund and contributes to various local organizations.

A. Peterson, A. Smith, Mr. Myers, J. Evans, Dr. Jarman, M. Lynn, Miss Kirkbride, A. Thaler, L. Strickland, Miss Atwell.

Freshmen were introduced to the whirl of campus activities by the newly initiated Freshman Week. The Mortar Board tour, a tea dance, the Big Sis circus party, All-U-Assembly, Religious Council meeting, Tug o' War and a Hubba Hop kept the freshmen busy getting acquainted with G. W.

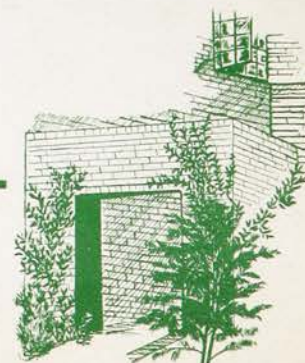

In November "Laddie" Reichwein, Student Council appointee, headed a vigorous "Bring Back Sports" campaign. At a rousing Sports Rally on the steps of Government, Colonel Donald Storck, Director of Physical Education Headquarters, Army Air Forces; Mr. James Pixlee, Physical Education Director, Army Air Forces; and Lt. Bob Wolff, sports announcer, gave many points urging the return of sports to G. W.

In response to student demand for fewer drives on campus, the Student Council sponsored a Combined Charities drive, dividing proceeds among the Red Cross, the Cherry Blossom drive, Community War Fund, Symphony Drive, Infantile Paralysis, Tuberculosis fund and Children's Christmas party. Lois Lord and Chuck Wal-lack, co-chairmen, headed the drive and awarded a large silver loving cup to the Pi Beta Phi's for obtaining the largest number of pledges for the drive.

The four annual Buff 'n' Blues in the Student Club proved bigger successes than ever this year.

In cooperation with the Alumni Association monthly forums were presented in Lisner Auditorium featuring outstanding speakers on world affairs.

The first big-name dance to be presented by the University in four years was held at the Shoreham Hotel with Orrin Tucker and his orchestra.

Each December students of the Engineering Schools cut, transport, and install on Lisner Terrace the huge campus Christmas Tree. This tree is the gift of the engineering student body to their fellow students in the other schools of the University.

The MECHELECIV, devoted exclusively to engineering activities, is published monthly and distributed free of charge to all engineering students in the University. It is sponsored by the Engineer's Council and is in its fourth year of publication. Included in the MECHELECIV is a calendar of social events, "School Daze" jokes, a feature on "Engineers and People," and reports from engineering societies on campus.

GLEE CLUB

If you've ever wondered how the Glee Club's genial, dynamic "Doc" Harmon acquired his medical epithet, be ye hereby informed—he is a bona fide, sure 'nuff M.D. Doc may be called out at any time, rehearsals not excepted, to usher some prospective Glee Clubber into the world.

Perhaps no other group on campus works harder or gets so much fun out of it as the G.W. songsters. During the traditional Easter and May concerts, members thoroughly enjoy themselves and many alumnae of the club return each year to sing "Kamenoi Ostrow," final number of the Spring Concert. Afterward, the Glee Clubbers leave the platform for the dance floor, and let the orchestra carry on.

Betty Lou Trowbridge, one of the star sopranos, originally had to forego membership because her cheer-leading activities took so much of her time. This year Betty Lou was so wrapped up in singing she couldn't find time for cheers.

Just to prove there's romance in a song, Pauline Gish, Second Soprano, met and married Dale Davis, Second Bass. Though both are grads, they still faithfully attend rehearsals.

John Mitchell and Chuck Dougherty hold the distinction of being the two oldest members—in point of service at least. Doc himself came in as a Second Bass in 1921 and was elected director in 1924.

For the past few years after the final appearance of the season, Glee Club golden throats stopped pouring forth long enough to pour in a liberal assortment of good things to eat at Chuck Dougherty's. The silence doesn't last long though—you just can't keep them from singing.

One of the most distracting but fascinating things that can happen to a waiter at Child's is to be on duty the night of a Glee Club concert. After the singing is over, the Club en masse makes for pancakes and coffee on 14th Street. Though singing makes big appetites, Doc foots the bill.

Before a concert Doc always advises the girls to "Be as glamorous as possible—it pays."

Judy Conklin's wonderful voice isn't her only talent. When Mrs. Harmon, accompanist, advisor and general morale builder isn't around, Judy takes over at the piano as the first student accompanist.

Ready to sing at the slightest indication, Doc and his gang prove that life "Without a Song" just isn't worth living.

It was on those memorable evenings of October 9th and 10th that Cue and Curtain opened its 1945-46 season. After much feverish preparation and hard work on the parts of all concerned, our first effort of the year was presented to the world. The curtain raiser for the season was Karol Capek's fantasy of the future, R.U.R. (Rossum's Universal Robots, to you). Although the worst of the manpower shortage, so they tell us, was over, every man in sight was drafted to fill the ranks in our regiment of robots. (The word "robot," according to our director, "Sparkie," who is the only man alive who knows how to pronounce it, is pronounced "rubbit"—so let's not hear any more of the "rowboat" stuff). The entire production was enlivened by original dances done by the dance groups under the direction of Miss Burtner. Incidentally, the blue dungarees that all stagehands—and who in Cue and Curtain doesn't double as stagehand now and then—are sporting are leftover robot costumes. John McClure who played Domin, the manager of the robot factory, was ably supported by Bert Awalt, Nelson Werz, Bill McClellan, and Tom Lodge. Jane Drew, as the leading lady did an excellent job in spite of her double capacity as prop manager and the mad dashing about that the latter position necessitated.

The final curtain had scarcely fallen on R.U.R. before work on the next show, Sidney Howard's story of vicious mother love, "The Silver Cord," was started. Who can forget Cay Knockey as the demoniacal, scheming mother? This was the same Cay Knockey who had run lights so well on R.U.R. undaunted by Herb Halberstadt, electrician and handy man at large, having fits at her elbow every five minutes. John McClure and Dick Lathrop assumed the roles of Mrs. Phelps's two mother-ridden sons. Mimi Branson was beautifully hysterical as the jilted fiancée of Robert, the younger son, while Margaret Fry (Lt. (j.g.) Fry, U.S.N.R. during the day) was convincingly defiant as David's wife.

The sets for both shows were designed and executed by Ray Tollman, not without much labor from all the members. Anyone wandering into the auditorium while work was in progress on the sets would, more often than not, find himself in a pair of paint-covered overalls wielding a hammer or paint brush with the gusto of a professional.

The amount of coffee consumed by Cue and Curtain members during a production is absolutely phenomenal, "Sparkie" at present holding all local records in the consumption of black coffee. The number of sandwiches put away by the stage crew alone would keep a family of six in food for a year.

The last two shows of the year, the annual musical and the classical drama have not yet been produced as the CHERRY TREE goes to press. The musical Kaufman and Hart's Pulitzer Prize winner, "Of Thee I Sing" will be presented in March. With the precedent set by the first two shows of the season, G. W. audiences should be in for some first-rate entertainment.

JUDY CONKLIN—Accompanist

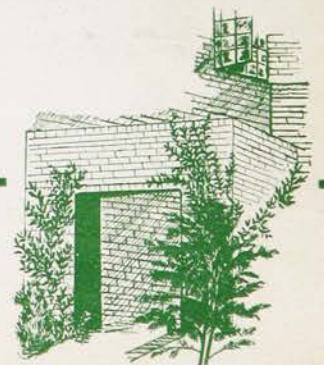

Under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Burtner, Orchesis opened another successful dance season by collaboration with Cue and Curtain on the production of R.U.R. Original robot dances, performed behind a transparent screen, echoed the fantastic elements of the play. Repeating last year's innovation, Orchesis and Cue and Curtain again got together on the latter's spring musical.

Three different skill levels are recognized by a tri-group division. Orchesis I members have mastered the fundamentals of movement and the mechanics of dance. Many former members such as Jerry Ross who played the lead in "Sing Out Sweet Land" and "Dream With Music" have become outstanding professionals. Barbara Lyddane, Business Manager for three years, is another Orchesis member enjoying a career in dance. Lucy Petta has been active in the Dance Playhouse Concert Group. Orchesis I is a closed group and its members are chosen from Orchesis II or are recommended for membership by Miss Burtner.

The second group is also closed except for recommendations by the instructor. Members of Junior dance who show exceptional ability may graduate into Orchesis II.

Junior Dance is open to all who are interested. Many students in the departmental classes take advantage of this opportunity to supplement their work in dance. All groups meet weekly in the new dance studio in Building J. Most of the music accompanying the original compositions is especially arranged for Orchesis.

Each spring Orchesis presents its outstanding compositions in a recital sponsored by the University Alumni Association.

Campus Organization for General Service is an organization of which George Washington may well be proud. It is the center around which all social service work is organized, and its members serve as nurses' aides, prepare Christmas boxes, train for Girl Scout work, and serve at the Episcopal Home for Children. COGS was organized on campus in 1944 and membership is based on activity points. A COGS key indicates faithful service over a period of months.

The International Students Society was organized for the purpose of promoting cultural associations and fostering a better understanding among the students from the many countries represented at the University. Members include foreign students, those whose parents were born abroad, and American students who are interested in the purpose of the society.

Activities for the year included the famous teas of Professor Deibert, a Halloween party, and a Taffy Pull. At the Christmas party, members told about the many interesting Christmas customs all over the world. During the March Evening of Music, each member played his favorite records and everything from South American rhythms to Russian folk songs resulted.

The Society brought the year to a successful close with a picnic which featured election of officers. Biggest event of the year was the spring dance which former members and interested University students attended.

Much of the confusion the new freshman feels upon suddenly being plunged into university life melts when her Big Sis arrives on the scene. Big and Little Sis were introduced to each other this year at a bring-your-own luncheon on Strong Hall roof. Gastronomical gratification (the joy of eating to you) had some stiff competition from the Strong Hall Circus—local talent proved good enough to keep the girls choking with laughter.

Since many Big and Little Sister teams were affected by Panhel's four-week silence period, a get-acquainted tea was given after rushing. At the Mothers' Tea, guest speaker Dean Kayser was his usual fascinating self. Just before January finals, Dean Adams gave some eleventh-hour words of wisdom on "How to Study."

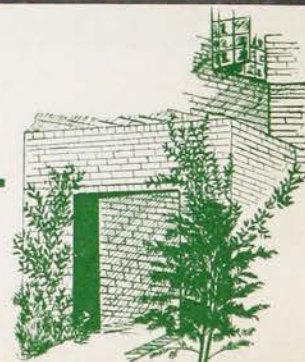

During the second semester the Big Sisters finished their constitution and elected new officers. A spring style show and a May picnic completed the group's most successful year.

Big Sisters are grateful to their advisor, Miss Kirkbride, for her wise guidance, and to Mrs. Patterson for her hospitality in letting them meet at Strong Hall.

Future ambassadors, ministers or diplomats may be found in the rank of Phi Pi Epsilon, foreign affairs sorority. Founded at G. W. in '31 the sorority fosters an interest in international affairs among University women.

This year's pledge class of 23, selected from students of foreign affairs, law, and economics, is the largest the group has ever had.

At one of the meetings alumna Lorna Stewart described some of her experiences during two years in Bolivia with the State Department. Mrs. William Crane Johnstone spoke on the opportunities for women in the foreign field. Other programs featured speakers from the State Department and members of the diplomatic corps in Washington.

At a joint meeting with Delta Phi Epsilon, both groups obtained first-hand information on the Japanese occupation of Manila from Norwegian War Correspondent Kirsten Pereson, who lived there during the Japanese regime.

Beta Mu Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, a professional fraternity in commerce, was installed on the campus of George Washington University in 1933 for the purpose of bringing together men possessing an interest in and a sense of responsibility toward attaining high ideals in the fields of commerce, accounts, and finance. Professional meetings are held regularly, at which speakers of recognized ability lead discussions on topics of current interest in the aforementioned fields. The fraternity encourages scholastic achievement by awarding a Scholarship Medallion each year to the student who has completed 90 semester hours with the highest average grade in courses leading to degrees in accounting, business administration, economics, foreign commerce, and public finance.

Chi Upsilon was organized for the purpose of giving women in the geology department an opportunity to get together. By a definite program of activities it stimulates greater interest in geology. A series of winter lectures is open to all students of the university who may be interested, and professional geologists or members of the National Park Service conduct field trips.

In November the members took a weekend trip to visit the Caverns at Luray, Virginia.

One of the foremost aims of Chi Upsilon is to further high standards of scholarship among the women of the university and to this end Epsilon Chapter offers annually a prize to the outstanding woman student in geology.

Five years after the entrance of the first women students into Columbian College, now George Washington University, Mary Charlotte Priest suggested the establishment of an organization through which they could keep in touch with the university. For fifty-two years they have continued the aims set forth by the first Columbian women: "The promotion of acquaintanceship among its members, advancement of women by the founding of scholarships in the various departments of the university."

The society is composed of alumnae, students of the university, wives of the faculty members, trustees and officers of the university and recipients of honorary degrees.

True to its beginnings under the first women graduates of George Washington, it has continued to specialize in feminine "firsts." Outstanding achievements of many members in art, science and education may be found in "Who's Who in America." Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle is the first woman president of the District of Columbia Board of Education, while Mrs. Joshua Evans has been feature writer for the Educational page of THE SUNDAY STAR. Miss Lucy Burlingame was the first woman to be appointed to the United States Foreign Service. Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keys, Miss Helen Nicholay, Mrs. Mary Roberts Rhinehart and other members of this organization have achieved national distinction.

ALFRED COPELAND Treasurer

The Engineers' Council is the guiding organization of the engineering student body. It is composed of eleven members elected from the several engineering societies and professional fraternities.

The Engineers' Mixer, which is the opening event of each semester, is a get-together of all the faculty, students and alumni. Here the new student meets his instructors and fellow students, and many old acquaintances are renewed.

To insure continued understanding between the engineers and other university students a weekly column "Slide Rule Slants" is written for THE HATCHET. Each member of the Council takes a turn at writing this column, and a representative cross section of the attitudes of the engineering students and of their activities is presented.

With the winter months comes the Engineers' Ball, which is held at one of Washington's most celebrated hotels. This is a gala affair with dancing and fun for everyone.

The Engineers' Banquet is an event to which each student looks forward. The guest speakers are outstanding engineers, mostly alumni, from industry. Honorary scholastic awards are made, and recognition is given to all those who have been active in the Engineering School during the year.

On the second floor of the Mechanical Laboratory Building is the Engineers' Lounge. Its comfortable chairs, good lighting and work desks make it the rendezvous of the students during their free hours at the school.

The Student Branch of A.I.E.E. at George Washington University was reorganized for the primary purpose of advancing the knowledge and theory of Electrical Engineering, and for the secondary purpose of establishing acquaintances among engineering students.

To carry forth these aims, every activity for the year was carefully chosen: undergraduate and graduate students were selected to give the principal talks at the monthly meetings; members were urged to write papers on any current electrical subject to be given orally to the student engineer body and then in written form to the National organization in competition with students from other universities. The Honorary Fraternity of Sigma Tau made tutoring available to students who desired help in engineering subjects.

In November, Professor Milton K. Aker gave a party at his home for the Society. The Electrical Engineers joined the other engineering organizations in holding the Annual Dance, and, later in the spring, the Annual Banquet.

Monthly meetings of A.S.M.E. feature engineers of wide experience as speakers, and a round table discussion gives the members a chance to make observations and ask questions. Members are kept informed of engineering progress by their professional journal, "Mechanical Engineering."

This year's activities have included the Annual Engineers' Ball, the Engineers' Dinner, joint meetings with AIEE and ASCE, and field trips to shipyards, factories, and plants.

OFFICERS

ANNE THALER Chairman, Chapel Committee
 JANET EVANS President, Religious Council
 MONA JEANNE KEESLING Secretary-Treasurer, Religious Council

Two organizations instrumental in creating interest in religious activities on campus are the Council of Religious Organizations and the Chapel Committee. The Council is composed of the presidents or delegated representatives of the seven religious organizations on campus; Baptist Student Union, Canterbury Club, Christian Science Organization, Hillel Counselorship, Luther Club, Wesley Club, and Westminster Foundation. To promote interest in religious activities and to stimulate coordination among the various groups, the Council sponsors Fall and Spring fellowships.

The Reverend Oscar Blackwelder, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, spoke at the Fall Fellowship. A mixer during October Freshman Week served both to acquaint students of different denominations with each other and to help each organization to meet new members.

Dr. Burnice H. Jarman, Director of Religious Activities for the University, serves as adviser to the Council.

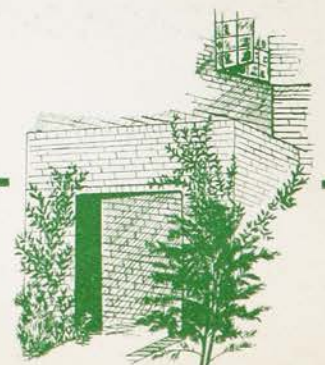

The Chapel Committee plans programs and secures speakers for the weekly services of the university chapel. President Marvin opened the first service and ministers from nearby churches were guest speakers during the year. Students conduct chapel as a non-sectarian expression of their faith in the contribution of religion to education. The simple dignity of the twenty-minute chapels in Columbian House are inspiring and helpful to weary students who often find solutions for their problems in these straightforward and practical talks.

One of many similar organizations throughout the country, Hillel Counselorship strives to further the cultural and social life of Jewish students on campus. It was founded by B'nai B'rith to help give Jewish young men and women a fuller appreciation of their heritage and a keener awareness of the problems they face today. Congressman Sellers was principal speaker at one of the fall meetings. Open forums and discussion groups were also held.

Biggest Hillel event of the year, and one of the most successful University dances was the "Ball of Fire." Lynn Allison and Mike Hunnicutt chose the "Apollo" of the evening from among many handsome male contestants. The dance was so successful that Hillel members and their friends are looking forward to making it an annual event.

Founded in 1931 by a group of students and faculty members, the Christian Science Organization at The George Washington University is one of sixty-six similar organizations at universities in the United States, England and Canada. The purpose of the group is to aid its members in gaining a better understanding of education and service through the application of Christian Science in all phases of their university work.

In addition to the regular meetings which are held in Columbian House on the first and third Thursdays of each month at 5:15, the Organization held its annual fall reception for new students November 11, 1945. Dr. Arthur J. Todd, Christian Science Committee on Publication for the District of Columbia, was the speaker. On November 24 a lecture on Christian Science was given by Mr. Gordon V. Comer, C.S.B., member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Organization also plans a second lecture to be given by Miss Florence Middaugh on April 13, 1946.

Pride of Westminster Foundation this year was their house, conveniently located across the street from Building "D". Open all day for study and relaxation, the members enjoyed true Presbyterian fellowship with their daily lunch-time get-togethers and weekly suppers.

Meetings, held every Wednesday night, were planned to fit student needs. Speakers, chosen from outstanding church and community leaders, gave talks on a variety of vital subjects including church history, theology and ethics. Panel discussions, devotional services, Bible study and movies rounded out the year's well-balanced program.

Climax of the fall semester was a Christmas party at which the members exchanged laughs and presents around a cheerful fire at Kensington Cabin. The organization is looking forward to its June retreat with the University of Pennsylvania, a suitable ending for a year of fun and achievement.

The campus caterpillar, the Canterbury Club, emerged last summer from its cocoon of inactivity, and under the leadership of Rev. James A. Pike has been growing steadily ever since. Summer meetings in Mr. Pike's Massachusetts Avenue apartment, featuring outstanding speakers, such as Coleman Jennings, were followed by discussion and refreshments and ended with evening prayer and hymn singing.

By fall, the organization had outgrown Mr. Pike's apartment, so they moved over to St. John's Parish House, giving up their organ, but acquiring a fireplace. Mr. Pike and "Smitty" from Westminster Foundation sponsored a series of lectures by prominent Washington church leaders and held joint meetings of the two clubs. The fall program ended with a bang-up Christmas party, games and mulled cider around a blazing fire.

During exams, the meetings were moved to Sunday evening with light supper, Open House and "bull sessions" in the Parish House. The lecture series, started in the fall, was climaxed during the Lenten season by the Wednesday evening lectures of one of the country's leading theologians, Professor Andrew T. Mollegen of the Virginia Theological Seminary.

Some of the members visited St. John's Orphanage one day and liked it so much that they kept going back to entertain the children, tutor them and take them on trips around the city. Warm Sunday afternoons found the Canterbury Pied Pipers anywhere from the Smithsonian to the Zoo.

Working behind the dynamic leadership of Mr. Pike, Owen Thomas and President Anne Thaler, club members look back on a most successful year.

Strong Hall's Council provided plenty of social life as well as enforcing dorm rules and quiet hours. In the early fall Staughton Hall girls were entertained at a get-acquainted party. During Christmas the girls exchanged gifts around the traditional tree in the living room.

The council also planned one-hour roof dances to be held from 8 to 9 on two Fridays each month. A formal dance was scheduled in the spring.

STAUGHTON HALL

Theme song for Staughton girls is "Give Me the Wide Open Spaces." Though it's no place for a claustrophobic we managed to cram ourselves and our roommates into the somewhat small rooms and still have a grand time doing it.

Staughton's night school capacity was cut in half this year and about forty-five day students moved in. The atmosphere is anything but formal—any time of the day or night you can hear the first floor quartet giving out with the latest in popular music, the second floor being sociable in everyone else's room, and the third floor discussing their current dates. Strong Hall girls entertained us at a get-acquainted party in the fall and we had our own Christmas party during the holidays.

Things we'll remember are Leatha's and Roberta's West Point pajamas, Sunny Ross' telephone calls, Betty Harris' wisdom tooth, Sylvia Dodd's piano concerts, our mascot Hugh De Pew, going to Leo's for a midnight snack, Polly Kiracofe's jokes, Penny Colwell's singing sprees, the second floor modern dance group, Rose Cordon's beautiful voice, ice water battles on the second and third floors, Mary Lou Krehbiel always surrounded by a mountain of oranges, trying to foil the phone company when we don't have a nickel, waiting for the mail (male) to come in, having a wonderful time all year.

Since its founding on October 5, 1943, the Veterans' Club of George Washington University has grown from a small group to the present organization which draws its members from the 1,800 veterans now attending the University. One of the first veteran clubs in the United States, it was instrumental in the formation of the National Collegiate Veteran's Association and is a model for many similar organizations throughout the country.

The club has a strong influence on school policy, especially in regard to veteran affairs. It has been extremely useful in helping the newly returned veterans to register and become acquainted with the University and its activities. The club also has been instrumental in securing living quarters for the men and providing for part-time employment and mutual study programs.

The club found time to promote and enjoy various social activities. The Vet's football team carried off top honors on campus and won the Intramural Championship. A party at the Sigma Chi house, the "Girl the Boys Come Home To" dance, and other social functions completed the season.

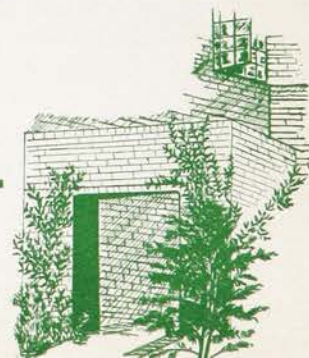

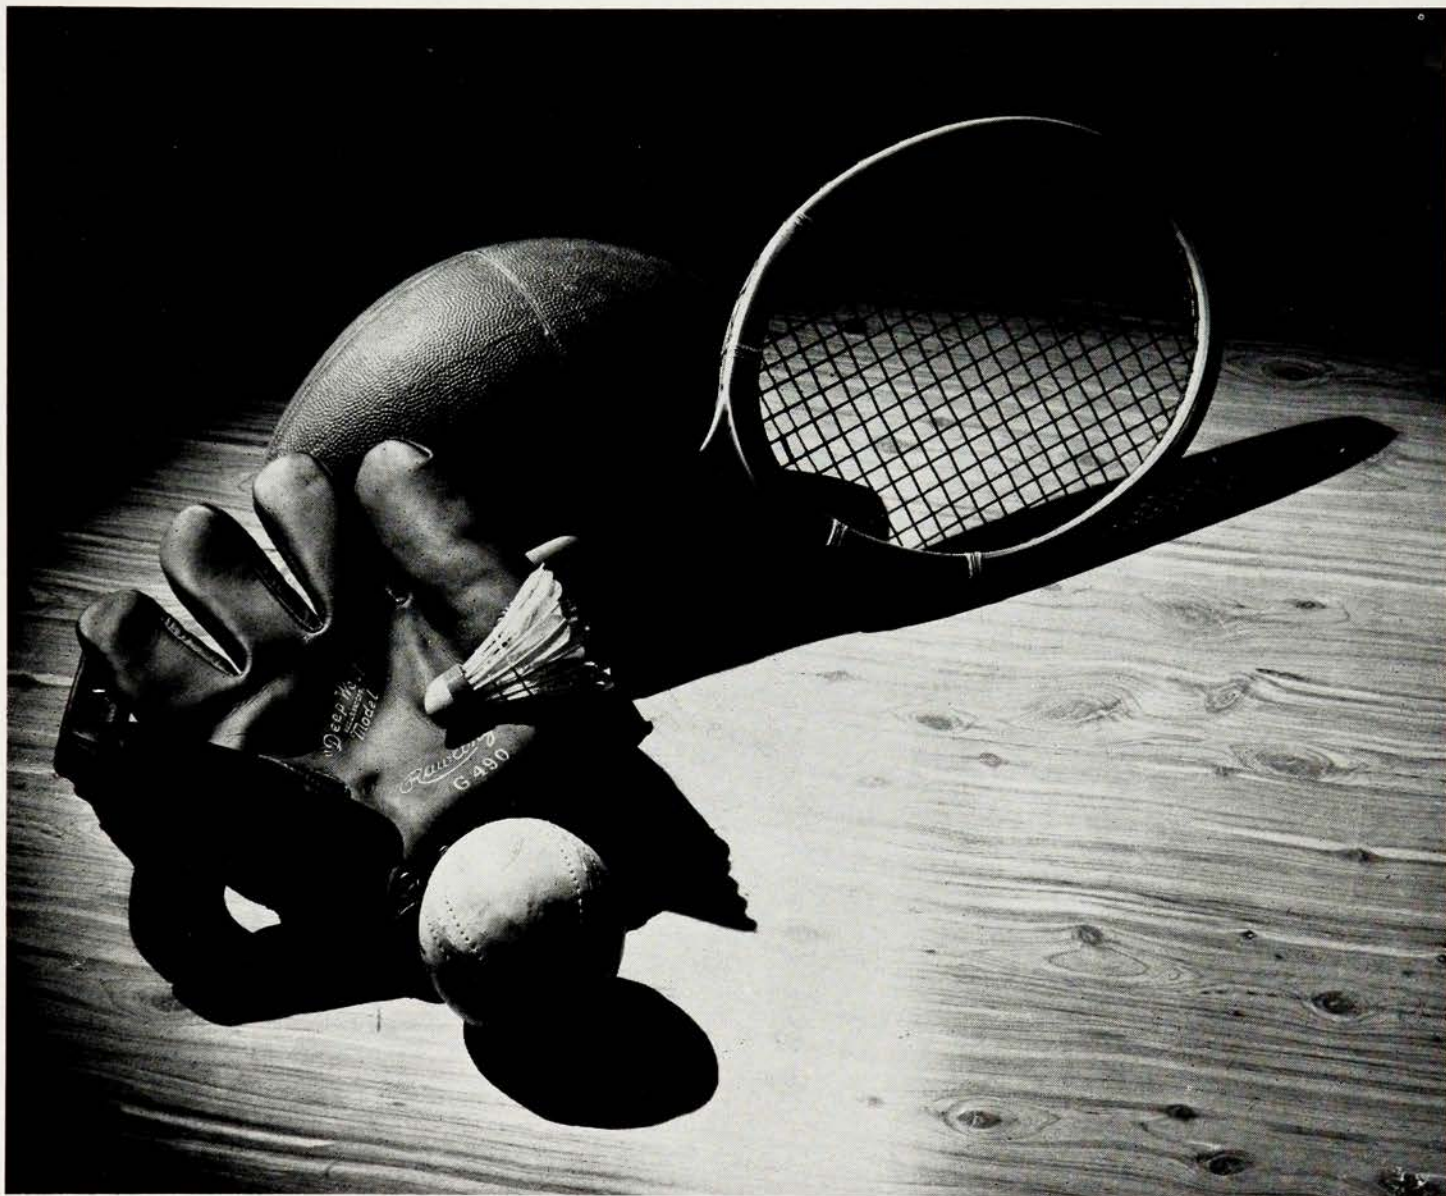

To love the game beyond the prize . . .

The S P O R T S

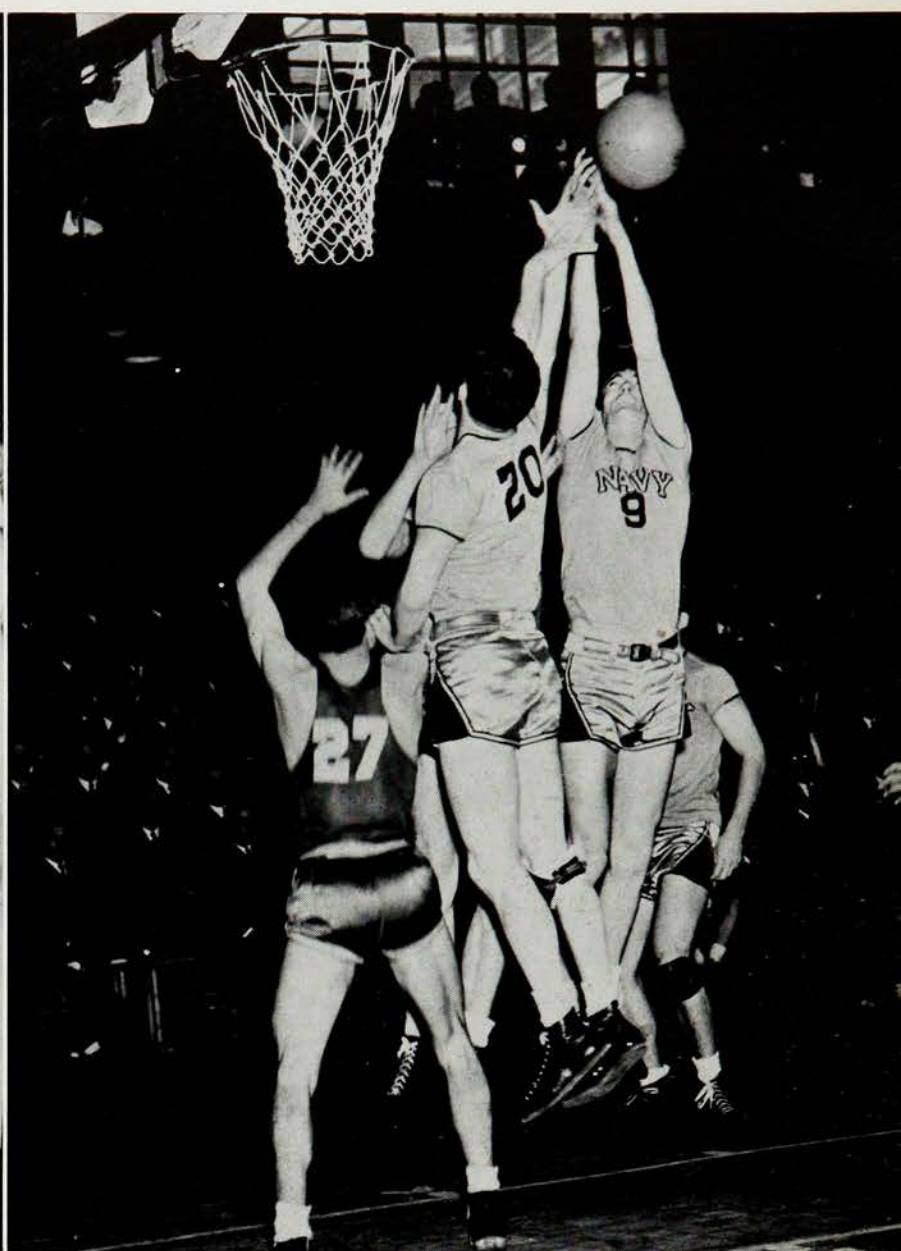

M E N ' S S P O R T S

The year 1945-1946 will long be remembered in the sports annals of the University. This year marked the return of George Washington to the intercollegiate sports world after an absence of three years. Basketball was resumed, and the addition of other major and minor sports was scheduled for the next year.

This year's cage edition did not live up to the high standards set by previous teams but it was nonetheless a credit to the University. The team got a good start by defeating a strong Fort Meade quintet, but soon bowed to the Southern Conference teams. With the return of many veteran lettermen the Spring season promised to bring an increasing number of victories and lay the groundwork for a strong Colonial team next year.

Presenting our first varsity basketball squad in three years:

LADDIE REICHWEIN:

Captain of the squad, lanky Laddie has earned his second letter as a Colonial. His height was a definite asset to the team in taking the ball off the backboard and also in ringing up baskets.

TOM ROBERTSON:

Tom played his first year as a Colonial, turning in many stellar performances as guard. One of the leading scorers, Robertson obtained most of his points on lay up shots.

BILL RICHMAN:

Richman concluded his first year as a Colonial by turning in consistent performances as guard. Always playing a steady game, he was a valuable aid to the team.

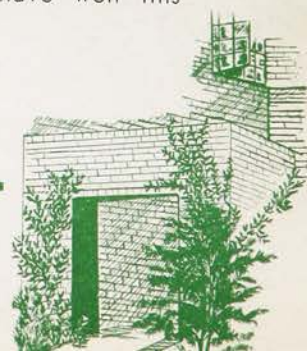

BILL TINKLEBERG:

This was Bill's first year as a Colonial and he capably filled a forward position. One of the cleverest ball handlers, he was outstanding for his own team play.

RALPH O'BRIEN:

O'Brien, a newcomer to the Colonials, earned his letter as a guard. A sharp-shooter, he scores from the floor with set and hook shots. Opposing teams found him one of the hardest Colonials to guard.

Intramural and interfraternity sports gained prominence this year. After a grueling season Theta Delta Chi came through to take the intramural football championship from the Bohemian Club. The Theta Delt's, however, were nosed out by a determined Sigma Chi eleven in the interfraternity competition. This marked the third straight year that the Sigs have won this championship.

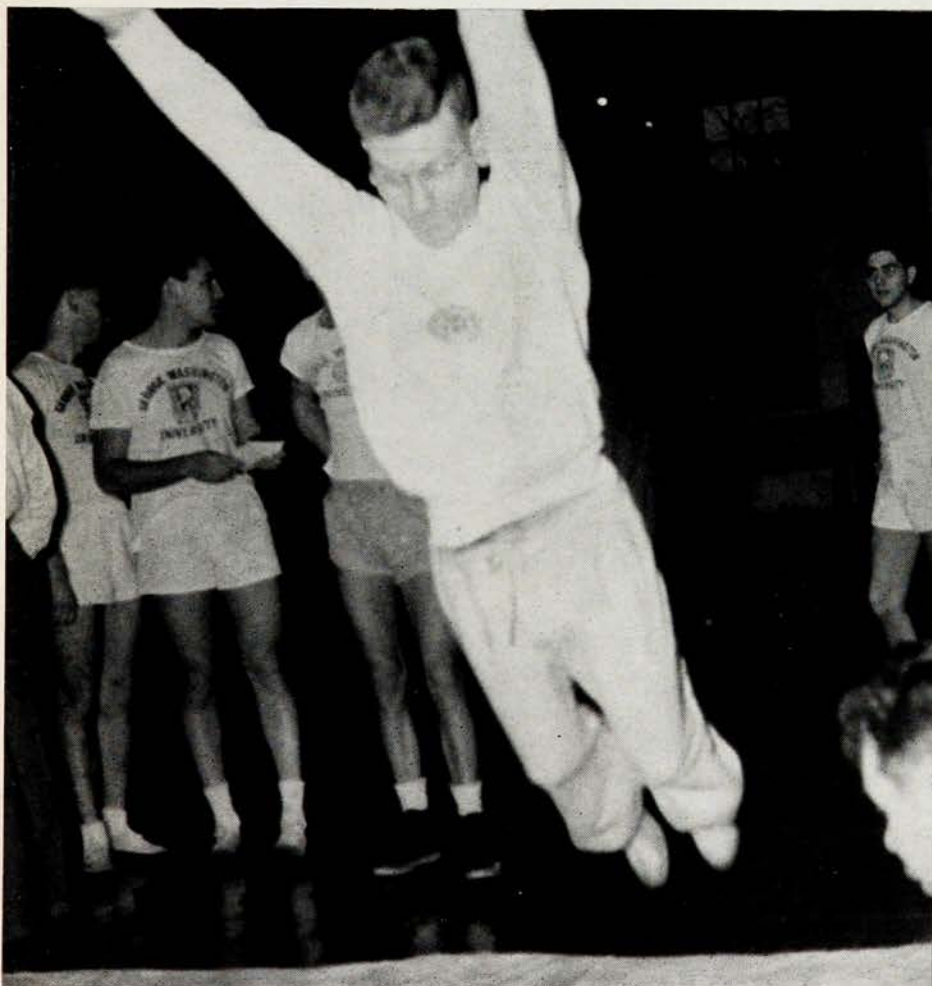

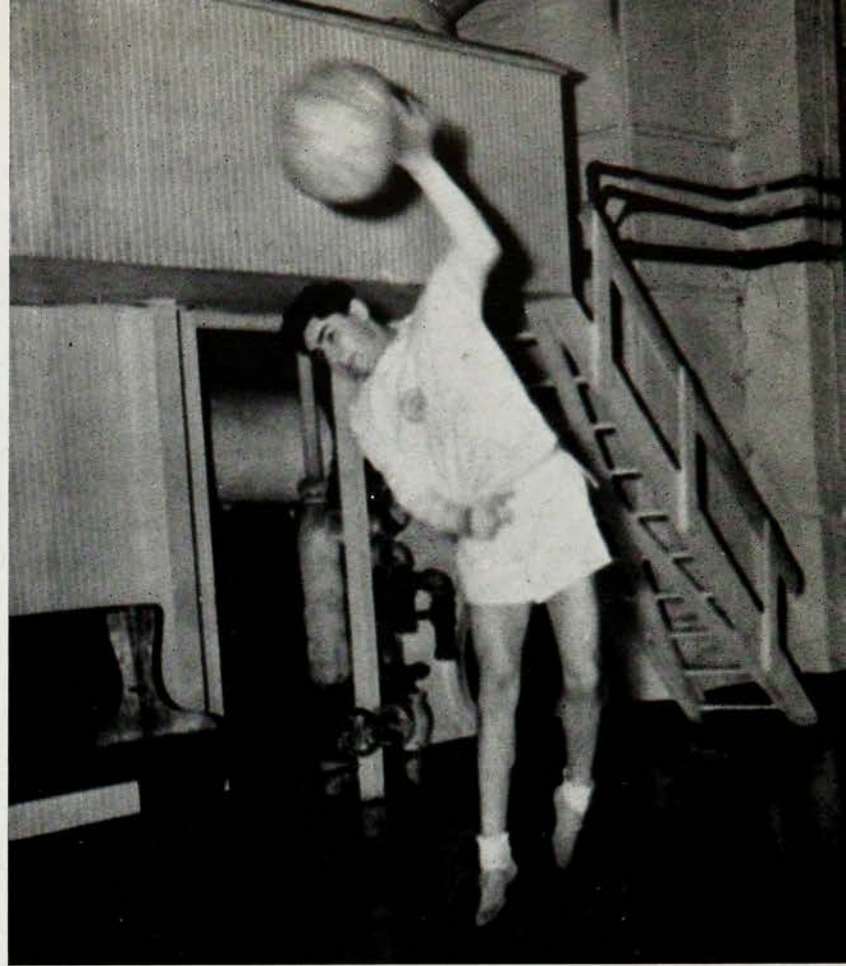

The intramural basketball league championship went to the Medical Sophs after much debate. Sigma Alpha Epsilon won the interfraternity title. In the 1946 season participation jumped to ten teams and promised to be one of the most hotly contested races in the school's history. With the new rules in effect a play-off among the top four teams will decide the champion.

Probably the most exciting of the sports events of the 1945 year was the spring boxing tourney before an enthusiastic crowd. Outstanding pugilists included Ray Coultrip, Ira Cohn, and Jack Besoner. This spring promised even greater enthusiasm with many veterans entering the ring.

Interfraternity bowling championship was won by S.A.E. The Vets held the 1945 intramural baseball championship, while Sigma Chi copped the Interfraternity trophy.

With varsity basketball back and football on the way, G.W. can look forward to a return to normal in the world of collegiate sports.

At a rollicking Sports Cruise on Strong Hall roof which featured a rhymed skit and a gay nineties beauty, freshman girls were introduced to W.A.A. While the girls drank cokes and munched pretzels, President Elaine Smith explained the requirements for membership. The minimum 75 points may be won by participating in a team or individual sport, or in the dance group.

The executive board, consisting of officers elected by W.A.A. members, and sports managers elected by the classes, met weekly to plan the association's activities. This year vice-president Sue Berger supervised the revision of the point system. Points are now given only for active participation in sports or a dance group, while a manager, instead of receiving points, will wear a miniature letter "M".

Despite a driving rainstorm, everyone enjoyed the annual Fall Banquet with Dean Kayser as M. C. Miss Ruth Diamond, Red Cross field worker, fascinated the group with her experiences in the European theater and her G. I. Jill-dummy. Jill was covered with insignia donated by servicemen. INTER-SORORITY ATHLETIC BOARD

SPORTS CLASSES

Under the direction of Miss Atwell, Miss Lawrence, Miss Burtner, Miss Turnbull, Miss Dennis, Miss Tate and Miss Prentiss, the Women's Physical Educational sports program this year was exceptionally varied and received enthusiastic response.

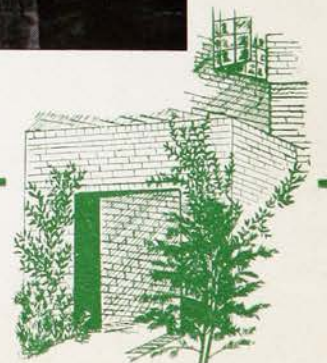

During the fall, hockey, soccer, riding and tennis were the outstanding activities. Hockey sports days were held at Hood, Trinity and Goucher Colleges. Outstanding players who made the Honorary Varsity were Barbara Nesbit, Jean Read, Anna Plepis, Kitty Killeen, Anne Hirst, Barbara Melnicove, Sue Berger, Leuvenia Peel, Ada Biskar, Isabelle Knowles, and Shirley Smith. The upper class soccer team had a successful season, winning all its games at G. W., but losing and tying in two games with Hood. The riding classes climaxed their season with a riding show at the Pegasus stables. In the Advanced Class, Diana Roosevelt took top honors with Onie Masterson a close second. Mary Cowgill was Elementary Class Champion, followed by Rosemary Sexton. The singles tennis tournament, with a large turnout, resulted in victory for Anne Gray, who is Woman's Champion for the District of Columbia. Anne Hirst was runner-up.

In December the classes moved indoors with basketball, badminton and swimming. The sophomore basketball team took top honors in the interclass competition with Anne Hirst, Lynn Harpster, Sue Berger, Dot Baines, Barbara Bacon, Janet Doidge, Janice Martin and Kitty Killeen their outstanding players. Molly Edwards and Jeanne Read starred for the upper classmen. Swimming classes were held during the winter season this year, which gave the girls an opportunity to get in more practice for the annual spring meet at the Y.W.C.A.

Softball competition began as soon as it was warm enough to play on the ellipse again. Winter sports had their grand finale on March second and sixteenth with Goucher and Hood coming to G. W. for sports days.

The Rifle Club was active throughout the year, holding tournaments with Drexel, Beaver and Maryland Universities.

The Physical Education Department began a new system of Recreational Activities Clubs, designed to give freshmen the opportunity to enjoy a variety of recreational activities. These clubs were started on February 6, each electing a chairman, secretary-treasurer and member-at-large. The chairmen of all the clubs formed a central committee to plan special events and programs. Each freshman joined one of these clubs, choosing between badminton, bowling, ice-skating, modern dance, rifle, roller skating, social dance and volleyball. The clubs met on Wednesday afternoons, taking the place of the hygiene classes formerly given. The recreational clubs, providing both elementary and advanced instruction, received enthusiastic responses from the students.

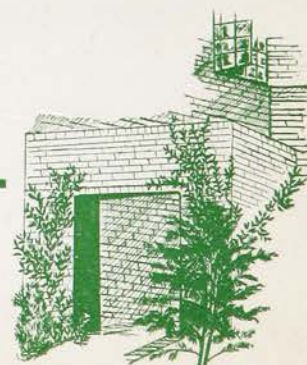

Fraternity is democracy in action, men learning to live together in peace and sharing the obligations and privileges that go with membership.

With its increasing membership and plans for the annual Interfraternity Prom to be held at the Wardman Park, the council continued its return to long absent but not forgotten peacetime standards.

The smoker sponsored by the Council at the beginning of the Fall season helped to acquaint the new students with fraternity men on campus. This, combined with the strictly enforced rushing rules, insured an orderly rush season. Strong Council backing made possible the return of three fraternities to an active status.

Having kept intramural sports alive during the war, the Council was instrumental in securing the return of varsity basketball to G. W. and plans to aid the return of other sports. The Interfraternity Football and Basketball League was organized and sponsored by the Council.

In order to promote activities on campus the Council awards trophies for scholarship, acting, baseball, golf, tennis, basketball, bowling, ping pong, football and to the winning men's group in the University Sing.

This year saw the welcome return of Theta Delta to the G. W. campus. The fraternity was founded at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., in 1847. Theta Deltas won the annual Tug of War held in the "stadium" behind the Hall of Government, and followed up by winning the Intramural Football Cup. The fraternity is represented in all intramural and varsity sports, publications, and activities, and was prominent in both the charity drive and the "return of sports campaign." Chi Deuteron chapter was honored by the selection of Todd Cahill as Undergraduate Treasurer of the Grand Lodge. Pre-war Theta Deltas who have returned from service include Jim Bacon, Chris Busick, John Donohue, Bob Flanders, Jim Hayes, Ed Morgan, Jack Quintrell, Ted Sonnenberg, and Bob Wales.

The new chapter house at 1912 "G" St., N.W., has been redecorated and remodeled throughout, and with the return of many old faces and the addition of many new ones, the progress of Theta Delta Chi is one of the brighter spots in the peacetime reconversion of the University.

Pride of Sigma Chi during this year of progress is their new house, purchased for them by their Washington alumni, and located conveniently on G Street across from Building "D". With many veteran Sigs returning to school, they were glad to move out of their cramped "war" quarters.

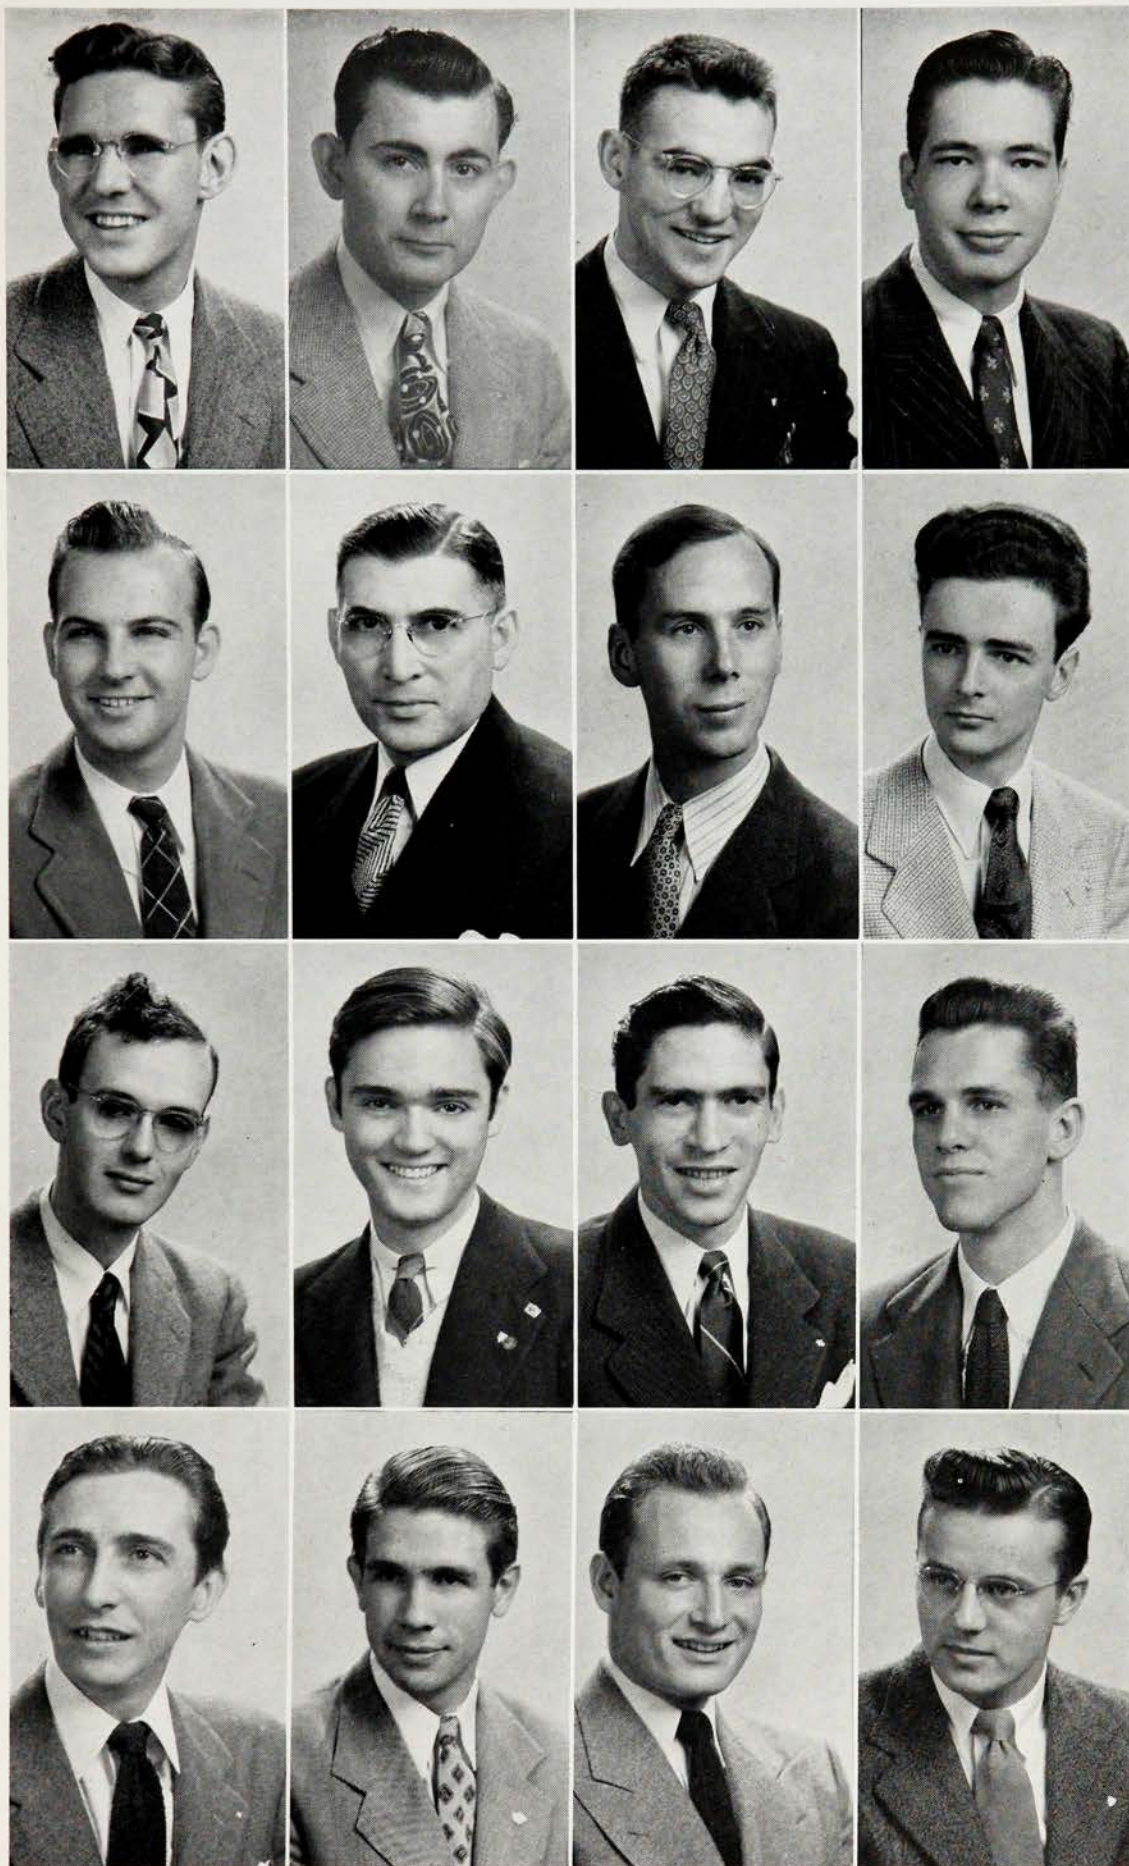

Right in step with this pre-war atmosphere was the increase of social events. This year they started a new tradition—a pledge-active basketball game followed by a big party with the pledges as hosts. Every Saturday night found the Sigs entertaining somewhere—from get-togethers at the house to an oyster roast with their alumni club. However the Sweetheart Dance at the Washington Aviation Club stole the social spotlight with the crowning of Kappa beauty Joan Rowcliffe as the season's "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi."

It seems that the words "sports" and "Sigs" have become practically synonymous. The inter-fraternity football championship went to the undefeated Sigma Chi team for the third straight year, and they also came out on top in the inter-frat baseball clash. The return of varsity basketball found Chet McCall and Jud Hulsey on the squad, while three out of the four Sigs who entered the boxing tournament emerged victorious.

The Sigma Chi's were well-known individually, too. Larry Strickland, activity ace, held down the presidency of both the Interfraternity Council and Pi Epsilon Delta. Roy Ritts made Alpha Chi Sigma and Bill Dorsey Phi Delta Phi. Cue and Curtain was represented with Business Manager Loyd Price and actor Joe Beyda.

It was a busy year for Sigma Chi, with progress, pleasure and pinnings to which they point with pride.

With the end of the war Phi Sigma Kappa quickly expanded its activities and membership. In the fall semester, besides a large pledge class, the Phi Sigs made full use of those members returning from war, electing Lee Moran president during the fall and John Hewgill president in the spring.

A review of the year reveals several moonlight cruises ed by Buddy Belote, Chuck Daugherty's miniature golf parties, a hard times party at Potomac Boat Club, a weiner roast at Sligo Cabin, the fall formal held October 13 at the house and on the last day of fall rushing, a southern-fried chicken dinner. Sunday afternoon tea dances started on November 11 with each of the sororities being invited on successive Sundays. At the annual Farmers' Day Ball on Nov. 17, Elaine Clark of Kappa Delta Sorority was chosen the Phi Sig Farmer's Daughter. The pledge class held a Christmas formal in honor of the actives. The house was gaily decorated with Christmas colors. After the orchestra left, Christmas carols were sung around the nine-foot Christmas tree. After an all-night New Year's Eve party, John Gray, social chairman, led a large group out for breakfast at 8:00 A.M. The Tobacco Road Ball, highlighting February's social events was held with appropriate costumes and sellings. Phi Sigs celebrated the 73rd anniversary of the founding of the fraternity with formal Founder's Day Ball, while the annual Carnation Ball was held in May. Phi Sigs were very much in evidence in school activities. The men's glee club included many members while Cliff Carlstedt was vice-president of ODK and treasurer of the IFC, Aaron Layne, vice-president of the Alumni Association, Ray Glasscock, Features Editor of the Hatchet, Jerry Patterson, Circulation Manager; Johnny Hewgill was also back defending his boxing crown, and Bill Ham was elected vice-president of the Junior Class. Phi Sig was very proud of its three members, Jim Edwards, Ed Stephens, Cliff Carlstedt, who were admitted to practice before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Yes, the year 1945-46 was an important one. With the war over, Phi Sig emerged strong and active to assume again a leading part in campus life.

Highlights of the SAE social season each year are the traditional "Bal Boheme" and the New Year's Eve Dance. In addition there is the annual Spring Dinner Dance held at one of the hotels around town. Add to these at least four exchange dances with sororities each semester and numerous unscheduled informal parties.

The Bal Boheme this year was held, as it has been for the last three years, at the Potomac Boat House. This year's Bal broke the record for attendance and revelry. The Brothers from SAE's Maryland chapter, University of Virginia, and University of Richmond chapters were in attendance together with guests from other fraternities. The most appropriate remark on the party at its height was made by a veteran who said, "This is worse than combat."

New Year's Eve witnessed another record turnout, and was in most ways a repeat performance of the Bal Boheme, this time in formal attire.

The chapter in 1945 won the Interfraternity Basketball and Bowling Championships and has a fine team under way for 1946 in basketball.

Our chapter adviser, Lt. Frank Bastable, USNR, is back with the chapter after an absence of two years.

Brothers Bob Wright, Hugh Logsdon, Ed Bauman were discharged and returned to the chapter in February.

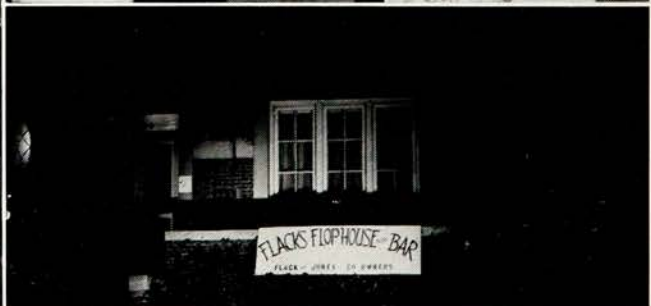

Brother Jack Waddell transferred to the University of Miami, in Miami, Florida, this fall and was instrumental in bringing a chapter of the fraternity to that campus.

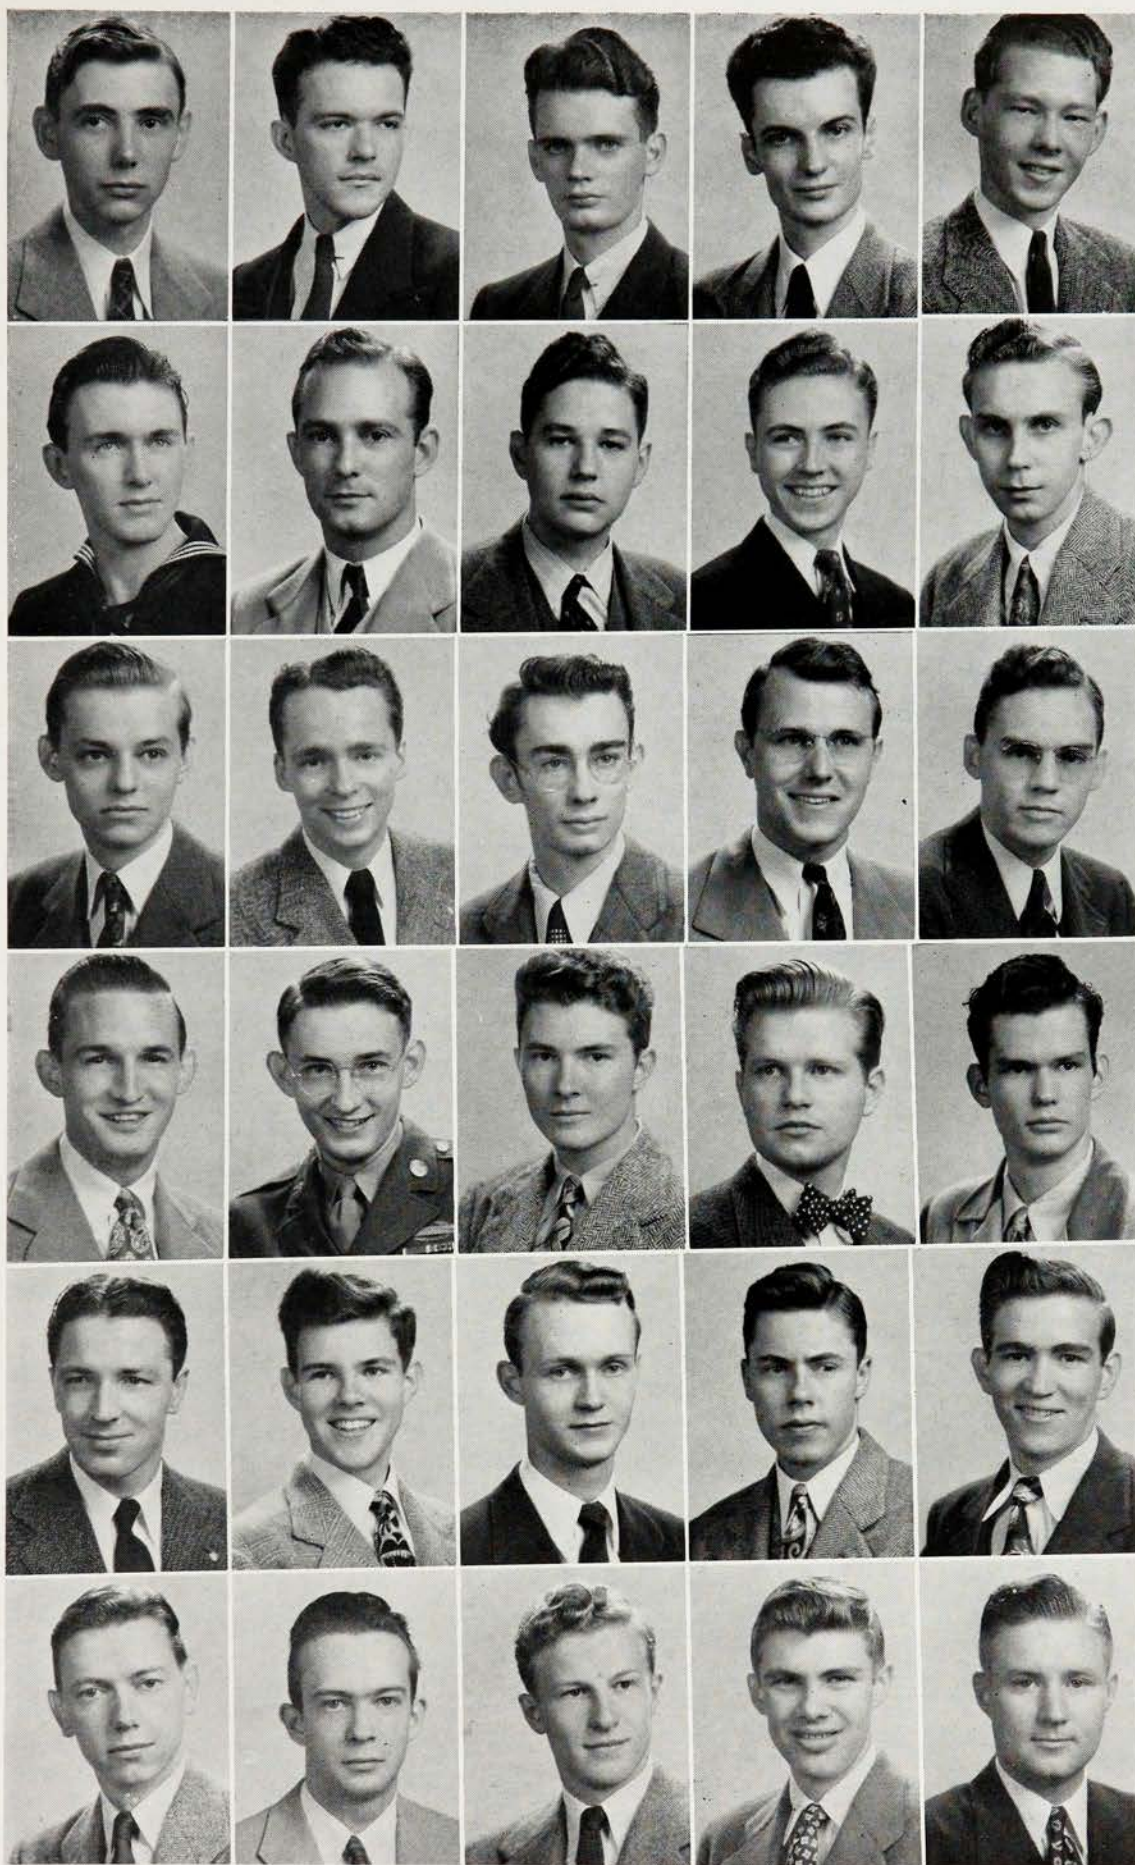

Bob Peterson won the award for being best pledge of the 1944-1945 pledge classes.

Bill Flack lent his voice freely in leading chapter singing and acted as M.C. at one of the chapter's most successful parties, "Flack's Flop House and Bar," held for the second time this last rush season. Tables throughout the house, a bar and gay nineties quartet carried out the honky-tonk theme.

Dick Generelly and Charey Johnson were sent to the 89th Anniversary of the National Convention of the Fraternity out in Chicago during the Christmas holidays.

Large Arkansas contingent of brothers still flourishing, though Tennessee again on the up swing. Numerous pinnings this year. Having trouble with Edward, the house boy, and with floors (keeping them sanded and waxed). Anyone interested should be seeing about having a good portrait made in Barnard's Studio in the basement. Phi Alpha opened the 1945-46 school year very quietly, with all members working with one big aim in view—the revival of the prewar Alpha-Gamma Reunions in April. Hoping to make this 1946 A-G the biggest ever, they subordinated everything to this goal. With no National Convention this year and with every Phi Alphan rarin' to go, this reunion promises to be the best ever with at least eight chapters in addition to Alpha and Gamma participating. Having lost a number of men to the services at least temporarily, they gained some back from among the returning brothers who were once again trying on civvies. Among the familiar and always present faces on campus was that of Lee Harrow, who in addition to being a Chemistry Lab instructor, took part in some of the Buff 'n' Blues. Herb Halberstadt, Business Manager of THE HATCHET and Associate Editor of THE CHERRY TREE, gained recognition in Pi Delta Epsilon and Who's Who. You could see Herb around campus trying to do four things at a time and three years work in two weeks.

The PiKA's celebrated a year filled with social events to welcome home their war-hero brothers. With the return of many vets the house began to take on a real post-war atmosphere. The brothers were always entertaining—all 'round the year the PiKA house was a center of buzzing activity.

Numerous dances highlighted the fall season. A gay time was had at their Harvest Ball, which turned out to be a happy medium between Halloween and Thanksgiving. The annual Shipwreck Ball was the best in years, with the fellows and their dates dressed as sad sacks.

The social year was climaxed by the traditional Dream Girl Dance which featured the crowning of lovely Kappa queen, Barbara Hanby, on the stroke of midnight.

Marriage was a big feature with the PiKA's—Gordon Calvert and Dale Davis starting the year's wedding march.

It has been a busy year for the PiKA's, who have been working hard in everything from campus activities to keeping their house ship shape. Whether in Law School, Columbian College, or browsing among bones and bottles in the Med School, the PiKA's are upholding top tradition.

Big news from Acacia headquarters is that they have returned to active status. After a brief war-produced inactivity the brothers are busy house-hunting.

The fall term was spent welcoming back the many Acacians who returned from the war, having Saturday night parties and planning for a busy rush season. The end of the school term found them well-established on campus, and looking forward to a coming season of activity and achievement.

From Fall registration through hectic rush weeks to the big prom in the spring, G. W.'s Greek femmes work together through the Panhellenic Association. Actives and pledges alike look to Panhel as a unifying influence and to the Council for the solution of inter-sorority problems.

This fall Panhel was overwhelmed by the biggest crop of rushees G. W. has yet seen, 395 strong, they kept Miss Kirkbride busy with questions and conferences as part of her plan to give personal interviews to each girl registered. A rush girl could be identified if she had: 1. the new white identification ribbon; 2. her nose buried in Mary Og's "The Big Rush"; 3. that worried look. The month's "silence" period preceding this year's delayed rushing was a little hard on some of us who found ourselves unable to speak to our roommates for four weeks. After bids went out there were many touching reunions on campus.

Recognizing the need of more opportunities for the university "ad interim" to mix informally, Panhel sponsored open house every other week for all students and faculty members.

To climax a hardworking year the gals relaxed at the Shoreham for the annual Panhel prom.

All sororities welcomed Beta Rho chapter of Delta Gamma to the campus this fall increasing the membership of the association to eleven national groups.

Through the close cooperation of the sorority delegates and presidents, Panhel tries to maintain high social standards, co-operate with the administration and coordinate the activities of its member organizations.

The Junior Panhellenic Council serves many of the same purposes for the pledge classes as the Senior Council does for the active sorority members. To start this year's activities, delegates gave the annual pledge tea in Columbian House and invited Senior Panhel members.

Biggest event of the year is the Goat Show. During the ten-minute skits presented by each sorority you may find anything from embryo Barrymores to Abbott and Costello slapstick. This year the three judges, Miss Kirkbride, Dean Koenig, and Miss Nichols, chose Chi Omega's "D. T. Special" as the first place winner and the proud Chi O pledges walked off with the much prized loving cup.

Pi Phi is one of those sororities where you find everything from the quiet to the energetic, always-on-the-go type but never the slow type.

And no matter whether they're out winning honors in scholarship, giving extra-curricular activities a boost, or shining at G.W.U. or fraternity hops

Just for example, take Jane Lingo, who, when she isn't studying quietly in some remote nook is running around madly straightening out her social life with a pencil, 3x5 cards and a notebook;

and Student Council Publicity Director, also chapter fund collector, Wells along with Elinor Kilgore, Doris Court, Jean Holloway and Gloria Chavez (who have already plunged into matrimonial bliss) will soon be hearing wedding bells.

Because of their talents, abilities and wonderful diversities, Liz and Jane were elected to Mortar Board and Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities.

To keep us amused we have the Harriets, Suzies, Rounds and Mary Ogs and Bart who also spends her time directing COGS.

Lovely Mera Riddell and Bobby Grigsby who was elected CHERRY TREE Beauty Candidate make beauty their duty.

And Maxwell, Sally, Jackie and Bobby have taken the CHERRY TREE up as a hobby.

Last summer we all set out on a houseparty to get a bit of relaxation and recreation.

And even though it rained practically the whole time, it didn't dampen our fun, for we made light of it in spite of it

Our Christmas party was even more wonderful than usual because Marcia Bartlett got dressed up in a red suit and played Santa Claus, and the Pledge Formal held on Christmas Day at the 2400 Hotel was swell.

So when our college day are done
 We'll all remember Pi Phi fun

And golden arrows sees us through

The Chi O train pulled out on the right track again this year, and under the leadership of Engineer Margaret Williams the crowd aboard headed for activities and honors.

Main stops on the social schedule kept the Chi O's checking their time tables so they wouldn't miss anything. First on the list was their September houseparty at Ocean City, Md., that even a tornado didn't break up. October found them breezing back to town to begin their whirl of activities.

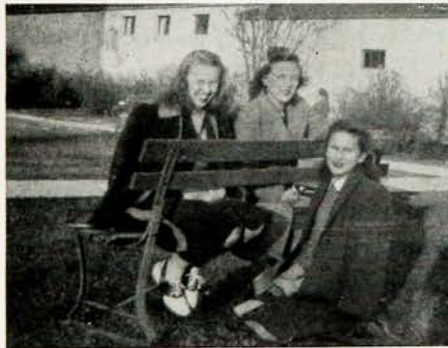

Fall rush ended with a record breaking pledge class, followed by a dance at the Wardman Park, weekly exchange dances and the annual pledge-active picnic highlighted fall events. Christmas vacation found the gals packing baskets for needy families and staging a big celebration at the "400" Club. Spring found the pledge chefs fixing delicious dinners in the diner before meetings while actives spent their spare time consuming five-pound boxes of candy and admiring each other's sparklers.

Since the pledges found that there wasn't room for them in the active's coach, they hitched on their own car, the "D. T. Special" that carried them to a first-place victory in the Panhel Goat Show. This talented crowd distinguished itself individually too—with Keppie Kephart and Norma Foust each holding a freshman class office; Lynn Harpster added her name to the long list of sports-minded Chi O's who won the varsity Volley Ball and Bowling Championships.

Activity enthusiasts were led by Conductor Anne Peterson (Annie P.) who presided over Student Council affairs and was elected into Who's Who, before she left to join Marianne Atherholt in the parade of winter brides. Shirley Anne Blair and Dorothea Cruger acquired Alpha Lambda Delta pins, while Eloise Spearman and Margaret Williams made Phi Pi Epsilon. Molly Edwards capably held down vice-presidency of the senior class. Those whistles you hear, are for Chi O super streamliners Julio Anderson, CHERRY TREE Beauty Queen nominee, and Jane Hurley, second place "Ideal Coed."

The train pulled into the station after a year of achievement and success; the crowd piled off, weary, but happy, in having carried on so well the Chi O tradition.

SK Roundup of the year brought to you by Zeta Chapter under the direction of prexy Cecil Spaulding, from Apartment 35 in Sorority Hall. When they're not bringing home scholastic and activity honors, Sigma Kappas are busy just having fun. Anyone on campus can tell you that SK also stands for "swell kids."

Initiating a wonderful summer was the week at Sherwood Forest when Dot Baines saved the day (and the Sigma Kappa's from starvation) by her four-mile hike for food. All night bridge games highlighted the summer evenings in the big rustic cabin.

Grand times continued in the Fall with the presentation of the twenty-five new pledges at Open House, Founder's Day Banquet at the Washington Club, dance with the Phi Sigs. Always to be remembered was the rollicking weekend at Sherwood Forest with Lois Smith, star kicker of the football game, and Clara Widmayer's gravy.

Marking the holidays they had a gay Christmas party in the rooms when pledges got back at their "mothers" with clever rhymed take-offs, while the Willard Hotel was the scene of one of our loveliest pledge formals.

Although always having fun, winter and summer, on the dance floor or camping out, Sigma Kappa's are also active on campus.

Keeping them in the limelight this year are Margaret Lynn, Who's Who, president of Mortar Board, Pi Epsilon Delta, Alpha Lambda Delta, and the Student Council—Juanita Hall, the girl who keeps the Student Council minutes, holds a full-time job and wears a Who's Who key—Mary Vliet, capable president of Alpha Pi Epsilon—and their three Phi Betas, Martha Seabrook, Lois Smith and Margaret Lynn.

Always found where there's a basketball game are a cheering gang of Sigma Kappas. Dottie Simmons and Kitty Killeen are always ready to prove their good ole G. W. spirit with a timely cheer.

Post war plans are forging ahead rapidly with five-pound boxes of candy appearing at almost every meeting.

Presenting—Helen Higginson, always good for excitement in the chemistry lab—Betty Thompson, barely visible under those huge law books—Marjorie Rhodes, electrical engineering major, holding her own against swarms of men—Judy Conklin always caroling.

Anticipating even more fun and frolics next year, the girls join in the cheer "Hail Sigma Kappa, Hats Off to Thee."

Under the leadership of Alice Stevenson the golden shield gals breezed through a year of fun, frolic and accomplishment.

Getting off to a good start with a late summer house-party at Herald Harbor, they returned to school full of plans and expectations. First on the list came redeco-rating—busy with paint and tailor's tacks, they had the rooms rejuvenated and ready for rushing—and they are still getting compliments on the results!

November rolled around, finding the Phi Mu's worn out, but thrilled with their grand pledge class. The neophytes were immediately taken into the whirl of events—beginning with the annual Founder's Day banquet and ending with a festive Rose and White pledge dance.

Highlight of the Christmas holidays was the get-together with the Phi Mu's from American University—the crowd piled into the rooms and thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality of the G. W. hosts.

As a climax to the year's social activities—four lovely Phi Mu's acquired new last names. The clan was kept busy going around to the weddings of Helen Johnston, "Bitsey" Respass, Robin Metz, and Helen Lukens.

With all their socializing, there were activities and honors also. The scholarship bug must have bitten Janet Abbe hard, for she carried off top honors—making Alpha Lambda Delta and winning the annual alumnae scholarship cup. Bettynan Dean was Phi Mu's entry in the "Ideal Coed" Contest, while stunning Gloria Baker was their CHERRY TREE Beauty Queen candidate.

Despite their hard work on campus, they still found time to carry out Phi Mu activities sponsored by the national organization—they contributed to social service and scholarship projects.

In this 94th year since their national founding, Beta Alpha of Phi Mu look back on a year of fun and fellowship and look forward with confidence to an even fuller future.

The D Z army breezed through the campus campaign this year and emerged with many ribbons to show off their victories.

Social skirmishes began in June with a bang-up breakfast given in honor of the discharged seniors, and continued through the summer with weekends at the beach and a watermelon feast, to escape bombardments of hot weather. Battling with classes in the fall didn't stop the D Z's—they counter-attacked with their traditional Harvest Ball, a gala evening of songs and toasted marshmallows around the fireplace at Joan Beattie's log cabin, and a festive Christmas dance. In January they celebrated the brief armistice after exams with a Flunk-and-Forget party.

Many campaign ribbons were won this year—General Rhea Blake, Betty Tracie, Felicia Miller, Shirley Mason and Jane Clark won Phi Beta Kappa keys—while Mary Alice Novinger and Dotty Jean Eggeling were officers of Alpha Lambda Delta. Honored for their service in the field of activities were Who's Who members Felicia Miller, Vice-President of the Student Council, Secretary of Mortar Board and CHERRY TREE Editor, and Associate Editor Lois Lord.

The new recruits, not content with merely putting an extra shine on the sorority trophies, stopped their K. P. duties long enough to produce a mystery skit—"The Legend of Foggy Bottom," which won them second place in the Annual Goat Show—and provided G. W. with a ghost.

The D Z's supply of rice and old shoes became dangerously low to meet the demands of all the marriages, but they turned out full force nevertheless for the weddings of Betty Walden and Peggy James in the summer, Dedi Black and Jane Elliott in mid-winter, and Rhea Blake and Louise Bender in late spring.

After such victories and achievement, the D Z's can now throw aside their campaign equipment and look forward to a summer furlough.

From their rooms in Sorority Hall pour many A D Pi's to join in all the University activities and start a few on their own. The Alpha Delta Pi's sallied forth to win the Cherry Blossom Cup for three consecutive years, which made it theirs permanently. They then were awarded third place in the All University sing. The summer, fall and winter months were well filled with beach and sailing parties, picnics, fraternity exchanges, Parent, Alumni, and Patroness' teas, Pledge Formals, and Christmas parties. Special honors for individual achievements go to Aggie Smith as President of Panhellenic, and a member of Mortar Board, and to versatile Nancy Hanck, outstanding on the Hatchet and in Orchesis. Phi Pi Epsilon claimed four Alpha Delta Pi's in their fall rushing—Joyce Dickey, Nancy Hanck, Jean Tyson and Mary Davis.

It's funny to look back NOW on the time we had to be towed to the shore out of a 60-mile gale; rush week with everyone running down to Nedicks to get a hotdog and cokes; cooking hamburgers at the SAE House; Lee as the strong-man in the Big-Sis Circus; the pledges looking cute as kittens dressed like little tots for the Goat Show.

The A D Pi's took great pride in walking away with second place in the Alpha Delta Pi national magazine contest and in welcoming Nellie Lee from China. Miss Lee came to the United States in the fall to assume her studies in nutrition at the University of Tennessee on an Alpha Delta Pi scholarship.

The A D Pi's climaxed an outstanding year when they all donned their white and blue ribbons in celebration of their ninety-fifth anniversary.

The Kappa Delta players turned out full force this year to give a command performance that will long be remembered.

Under the direction of Producer Dolores Lancaster, the cast worked well, leaving her time to carry out her duties as President of the Inter-Sorority Athletic Board, and Seniors Editor of the CHERRY TREE.

The first scene opened with KD summer activities—the gay houseparty at Marianne Edge's Maryland cottage, festive rush parties at member's homes—and ended with a pledge dance at the Roger Smith Hotel to introduce their lovely new performers. The second act found the KD's busy with activities—assistant director Elaine Clark was cast as Farmer's Daughter at the Phi Sig's Farmer's Day Ball. Also starring were Kitty Bauer as President of the Newman Club, and Ellen Liska who wrote the minutes for the Pan-Hellenic Council and directed the activities of the International Students Society. All the KD's were top-rate performers at the Christmas party they gave for underprivileged children. The end of the act found the spotlight shining on five beautiful KD brides—Pauline Gish, Ginny Allen, Shirley Cranford, Betty Graham and Mary Jane Whittlesey. The curtain fell on the dramatic Black and White Ball, and the farewell parties given for the veteran actors who were graduating.

There were many press clippings to treasure—the dinner dance that highlighted the Christmas holidays with Province President, Mrs. John Ross, as guest star . . . the "sleepless" slumber parties at Dolores Lancaster's and Mary Jane Whittlesey's . . . the numerous exchange dances with fraternities—wherever the KD's performed they met with success.

The footlights have shone on Sigma Mu Chapter for another year—look to Kappa Delta for a repeat performance.

Thirty Phi Sig maids are we,
Working hard for our degree.
Bowling, begging, brunching, too.
Don't believe that's all we do.
National knew that we were great.
The Progress Trophy we did rate.
And a-begging we did go
To raise for charity some dough.
All go to functions Phi Sigs give
We brunch at Li's, have fun with Viv.
In The Still of the Night we gave out with our "ooos"
Despite Sapin and Segal, we didn't lose.
We're pretty busy snagging our men.
Of engagements and marriages, we've almost ten.
Gering, Rosenberg, Wolf, and Brody,
Jacobs, Buxbaum, Sauber, and Rhody.
Gimbel was in a perpetual daze
But despite all her moans she still got her A's.
Nora Dubin had her blues,
"Will Etta Kimche pay her dues?"
Muchnick full of sparkle and verve

After two rugged years with Merve.
And Sarah beams when she sees Ray.
Maybe they'll get hitched some day.
Doris still moping with plaintive sighs
Whenever she hears, "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."
Vivian, domestic, in apron so white
Baked cake at Gertie's on Tuesday night.
Artist Phyl Miller is nearly through school
And Ada Hamburger remains calm and cool
Blue-eyed Betty and dark-eyed Ann
Never need worry about a man.
Caplan and Maletz bidding seven-no-trump.
Another semester, they're still in their slump!
Verna with her piano and always late Grace
Each in Phi Sig has her place.
At Founder's Day we did celebrate
And presented our pledges on that date.
Spector, Breenbaum, Reiver, and Kuhn
Klion, Ross, Miller, and June.
Phi Sigma's all, we've had our fun,
And await the day our diplomas are won.

Things started buzzing with the Zetas last summer when they were hosts to their Alpha Province Convention and they've hardly had a spare moment since. . . Their social schedule was especially full with something going on all the time. . . The Founder's Day Banquet started the fall term, followed by rushing and a dance at the Wardman Park to introduce their lovely new crop of pledges. They gave a Christmas Party for the D. C. alums and enjoyed numerous bowling parties. The end of finals found the whole crowd sight-seeing in New York. When Spring fever caught up with the Zetas, many a warm weekend found them dropping their books and heading for West Point, Princeton and Annapolis. They highlighted the spring semester with another formal dance—and plans for a lively Zeta house party to close a busy year.

The Zetas seem to have been just as active individually as they were as a group. Phi Beta Kappa, Ginny Jones, their "Ideal Coed" candidate, added both brains and beauty. Vivacious "Chris-tine" Hudson's southern drawl livened up Alpha Pi Epsilon, Canterbury Club and Religious Council meetings. Phi Pi Epsilon pledged Betty Mayfield and Dorothea Baker. Cathie Barry served as Publicity Chairman of Big Sis, and reported for the Hatchet, while many members went "all out" for the Glee Club, and added their talents to Cue 'n' Curtain. Pretty Charleen Holly transferred from Alabama and immediately swung into activities—she was Zeta's CHERRY TREE "Beauty Queen" contestant.

From adding the artistic touch to Cue 'n' Curtain scenery to giving frequent buffet suppers in their newly decorated rooms, the Zeta's motto is "Action."

Keeping up with everything; activities, academics and amusements, Kappas had never a dull moment under prexy Elaine Smith.

After the grueling struggle of exam week, we collapsed wearily on the sunny beaches of Ocean City, Md. By careful calculations twenty-six girls were squeezed into two small houses. The food and "hell days" will never be forgotten.

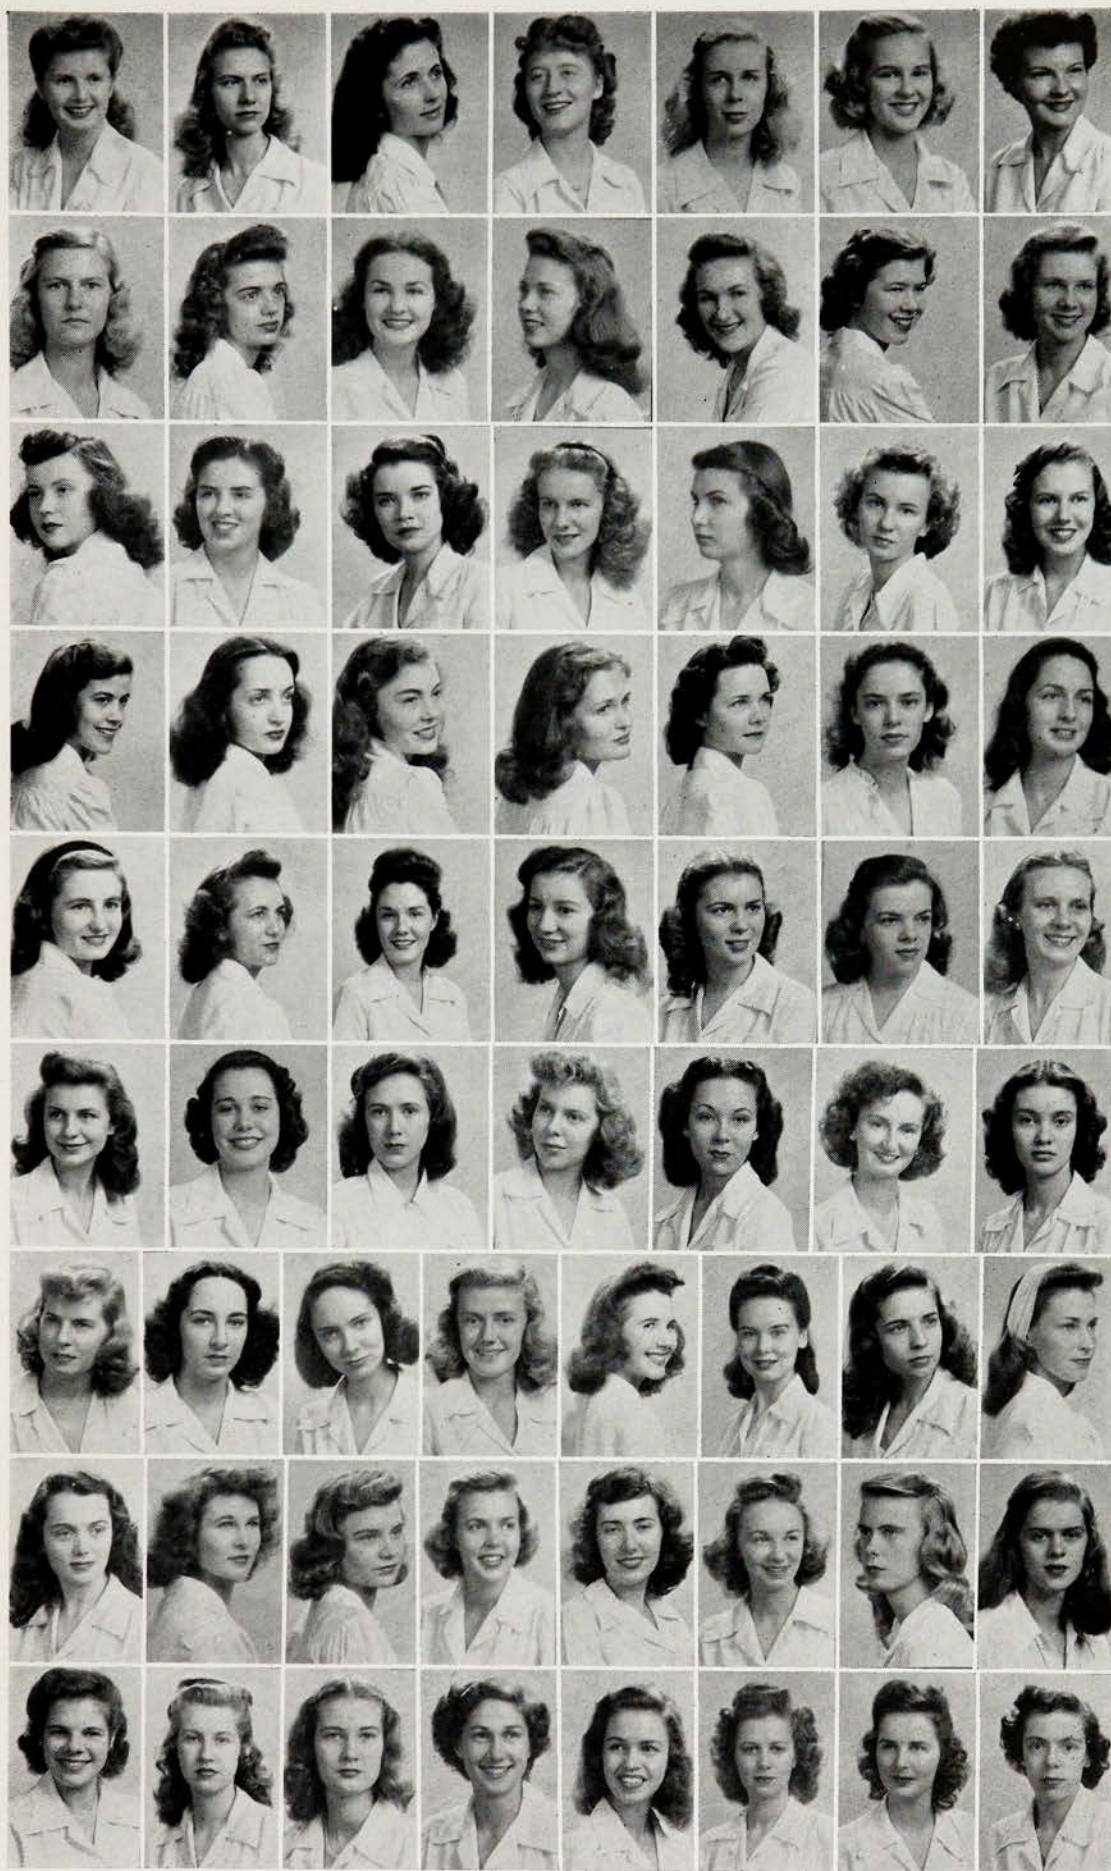

Pledge-Active dinners were monthly features in our newly decorated rooms. Before taking off for the Christmas holidays the blue and blue girls celebrated with a hilarious slumber party.

Presenting our stars—Charming, friendly Elaine Smith with her admiring fans among her Jr. High gym pupils belongs to Mortar Board, Who's Who, and is president of Kappa and W.A.A.—Dot Snyder, that girl who's here one minute and gone the next, dexterously divides her time among the Hatchet and CHERRY TREE, Mortar Board, Student Council, Shakespeare and teaching gym classes—Polly P., our vivacious newswoman wears a Who's Who key, edits the Hatchet and plans assemblies for the Student Council—Barbara Hanby combines beauty and ability as "Dream Girl of Pi K A and as Ad Editor of the CHERRY TREE—Barbara Stellwagon is Big Sis president, Mimi Branson, Cue 'n' Curtain president; Joan Rowcliff, Sweetheart of Sigma Chi; Florence Crawford, May Queen; Eddie Wadden, vice-president of the sophomore class; and Betty Starky, Ideal Coed.

After adding shiny new cups to the rooms for winning first prize in the University Sing with "Ziguener" and "Kappa Dream Girl," for winning the combined intramural competition and for holding the highest scholastic average, the Kappas locked the door on another successful year.

Delta Gamma weighed anchor and set sail at The George Washington University with the founding of Beta Rho chapter on October 6, 1945. Sails were unfurled by the five National Officers with formal initiation ceremonies at Maryland University. The launching was completed by a reception at the home of President and Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin.

Two weeks later the general rush season mist cleared to disclosed ten new apprentice seamen climbing aboard to keep the bronze, pink, and blue apartment shipshape.

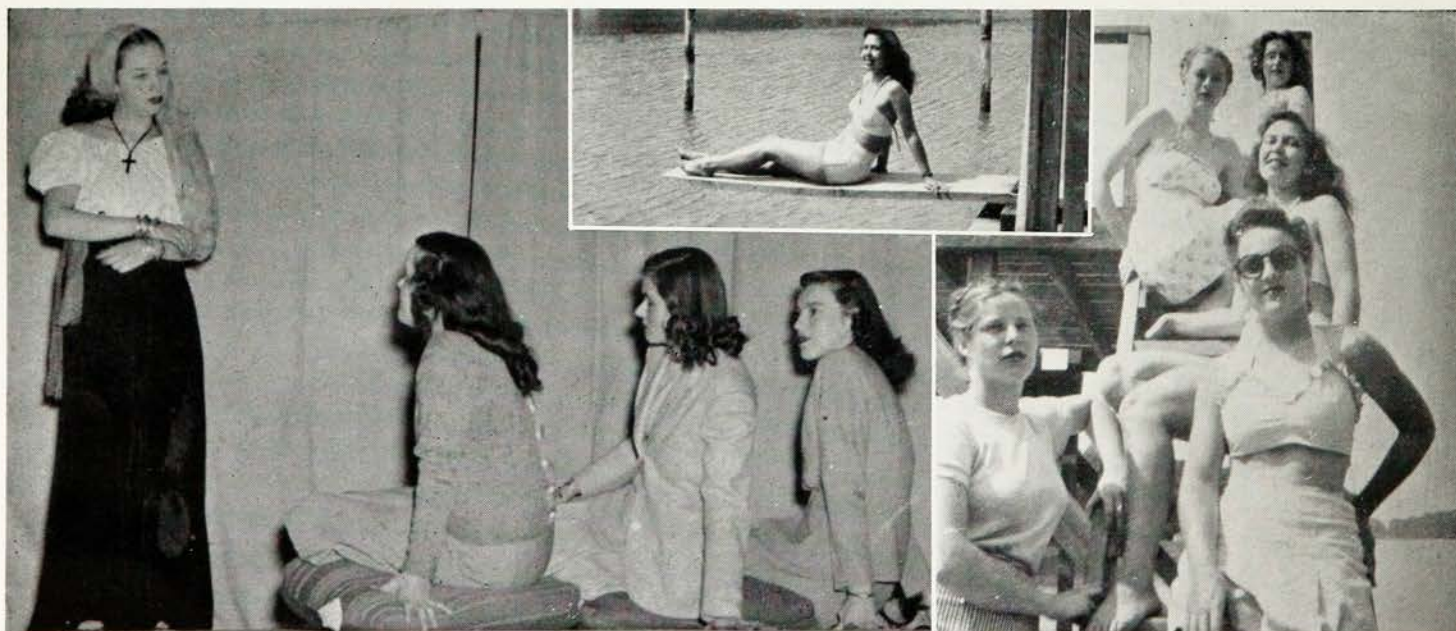

During the lull following rush season the twenty-six Delta Gammas held Open House for the fraternities along with the other sororities and later another one to introduce older Greek gals to their newer sisters. The fall pledge formal was held December 12, at the Burgundy Room of the Wardman Park Hotel with the girls from the American University chapter. January initiation, February rushing, and its formal complications rounded out the first year's cruise of the Beta Rho.

The first skipper, Cynthia Phillips, proved such an ideal helmsman, devoted to the welfare of both ship and crew, that her sisters honored her with a jeweled anchor in appreciation of services rendered.

The year got off to a fine start the week before installation when Janet Evans, a Hatchet editor, was tapped for Mortar Board. She was later included in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. Vivacious "Izzy" Knowles was D G's representative in the CHERRY TREE Beauty Contest. El Klockow devoted most of her spare time to work with Home Ec's Alpha Pi Epsilon, while behind the scenes at Cue 'n' Curtain's plays lurk the Mary Janes (Baxter and Detrich) and Besi Lewis. Vice-President Jean Staiger was seen flitting to and from Orchesis in addition to her duties as pledge mistress.

Heaps of thanks for helping make this a successful year are due to Miss Virginia Kirkbride, Director of Personnel Guidance, to our Greek friends (particularly Kappa Kappa Gamma), and last but far, far from least, to our sponsoring alumnae committee.
